It's in the attitude

That's the developer's key, says a Pleasanton mogul

What began as a friendly doctor's challenge is gradually reshaping Pleasanton—and Pleasant Hill, Fremont, Madera, and a handful of other spots in Northern California, along with the alfalfa sprout business.

His name is Page Binkley. And he confesses—somewhat sheepishly—to never having thanked the taunting doctor.

He's quietly become one of the city's "major" developers. Not in the acreage developed—Who could compete with massive tract home development?—but in subtle ways that are gradually reshaping the city.

He's developing the office-shops complex for W. Angela Street on a long vacant lot behind the Exxon Station at Main Street. And, with city approval finally behind him, he'll build 28 townhouses at Black Avenue and Hopyard Road.

Designer Dave Stevens, who built that "contemporary - California - Tudor" across from the police station on Main Street, is designing both.

The two have other irons in the fire, including cryptic smiles at mention of the old Post Office on the south end of Main Street.

Those are a lot of projects for one man, a "developer" who works from his home and his 5-speed Honda Accord.

A developer in an economy car?

Yes. One with a recently completed four-plex in Fremont, a hunk of Pleasant Hill's Redevelopment project, and a 360-400 unit housing development near Madera under his belt. And the twinkle of "other things I'm working on" in his eye.

Won't hike Chowchilla indictments

OAKLAND (AP)—A judge Friday rejected a prosecution argument that the "bodily harm" portion of the indictment against the defendants in the Chowchilla mass kidnaping case should include all 27 victims instead of only five.

The ruling was handed down by Superior Court Judge Leo Deegan, who set a trial date for the three defendants for Nov. 1 on the charges of kidnaping 26 school children and their bus driver at gunpoint July 15, 1976.

The three have pleaded guilty to kidnaping, but innocent to five counts of kidnap with bodily harm, which carries a maximum penalty of life in prison without possibility of parole.

No case for bodily harm
says defense

Only five of the kidnap victims were named in the Madera County indictment as having suffered bodily harm. The prosecution contended that should be extended to all the victims because alleged psychological harm they suffered also amounted to bodily harm.

Defense attorney Edward Merrill, representing Richard Schoenfeld, 24, argued, "there is nothing in the grand jury transcript that develops a case for bodily harm pertaining to all the victims."

Schoenfeld must stand trial with his brother, James, 25, and Fred Woods, 25.

The three are accused of imprisoning their victims in a van buried beneath a rock quarry in Livermore, 95 miles north of the kidnap scene. The victims clawed their way to safety about 17 hours later.

Schools here could reap $1.3 million

Valley schools could receive more than $1.3 million in basic aid if the proposed property tax relief-school finance package wins legislative approval this week.

The proposed school bill would immediately provide a $297 million increase in state funds for California's 1,046 local school districts.

Assemblyman Floyd Mori (D-Pleasanton) Friday predicted the measure would win approval on a close vote. Both the school finance measure and property tax proposal require two-thirds approval in Senate and Assembly.

Mori said Valley schools would receive approximately $1.3 million in basic aid, which is computed on the basis of the average daily attendance of students as recorded by each school.

Urban impact aid funds, designed to help lower-income districts with bilingual and other needed programs, would aid some Valley schools in two to three years.

The Amador Valley Joint Unified High School District, serving Pleasanton and Dublin, would receive $211,600 immediately in basic aid funds if the measure receives legislative approval. Urban impact aid monies totaling an estimated $2,000 would be forthcoming in school year 1979-80.

The district tax rate could be reduced by about 30 cents by 1981-82, Mori predicted.

The Pleasanton Elementary School District would get $217,000 in basic funds. Urban aid funds estimated at $2,400 could come into the district in 1979-80. The tax rate could drop by 19 cents in 1981-82.

The Murray School District, serving middle and elementary schools in the Dublin-Pleasanton area, could receive $222,700 in basic funds. Impact aid of $575 may reach the district in 1979-80. The tax rate could be dropped 40 cents this year, with similar reductions for the four years following.

The Livermore Valley Unified School District could get $656,000 in basic aid funds this year. Impact aid funds of $10,400 could be received in 1979-80. The tax rate could be reduced 40 to 53 cents in each of the next four years.

The Sunol Glen School District would not receive any additional funds because it is a high-wealth district.

Tax relief totaling $4.5 billion would come in the form of annual rebate checks. Rebates ranging from $37 to $400 or more, depending on income, would be mailed to more than six million taxpayers.

Approximately 60 per cent of all homeowners and 78 per cent of all renters would receive rebates.

A conference committee of the two legislative bodies worked out the proposed compromise. Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who helped negotiate the package, indicated he approves the measure.

First VCSD mail ballots trickle in

Signed and sealed ballots that will decide Sept. 6 who two new Valley Community Services District (VCSD) directors will be are starting to be delivered to Alameda and Contra Costa County Registrar of Voters offices in VCSD's first-time mailed-ballot election.

On the same ballot, voters get to choose whether or not they want to have future mailed-ballot general elections.

Out of 4,913 ballots mailed out Aug. 17 from the Alameda County Registrar of Voters office, 454 had been signed and returned as of Friday, according to Eileen Dutch. She is secretary to James A. Riggs, Alameda County Registrar of Voters.

Contra Costa County mailed out 4,780 on Aug. 18. By Friday, 467 had been mailed back, according to a spokesman for Contra Costa County's County Clerk, James R. Olsson.

Homeowners unite

Some 40 Mission Park homeowners in Pleasanton voted unanimously last week to form a homeowners association, according to spokesman Bob Grove, who co-led the drive.

A six-member steering committee has been formed to work on by-laws and investigate the steps toward incorporation. All would-be association members are slated to meet again Sept. 29 at an as yet unspecified location.

The association's core will lobby at this week's Alameda County Supervisors meeting to keep the proposed East County Government Center out of their neighborhood, according to Grove.

The prospective association also "will voice concern about issues that effect Pleasanton as a whole," Grove said.

Dublin registration

Dublin High School's mill registration is scheduled for seniors and freshmen on Sept. 7 and juniors and sophomores on Sept. 8.

Registration packets can now be picked up at the school counselling office and must be completed before mill registration. All new students should contact the counselling office for an appointment before Sept. 7 to select classes.

CHP may enter traffic campaign

SAN RAMON — California Highway Patrol and Contra Costa County officials are displaying interest in the plight of the Save Our Children Association (SOCA) campaigning for stricter traffic patrol along Broadmoor Drive, one of the community's major residential routes.

Representatives from CHP and the county have called, said SOCA chairman Fred Rodriguez. They want to know the outcome of a public forum scheduled Sept. 14, 7:30 p.m., in the California High School gymnasium, he explained.

"After they receive this input from concerned San Ramon people, the officials said they would know more about how to solve the traffic problem on Broadmoor that endangers the lives of our children; especially when schools are in session," Rodriguez added. "They want to hear what people have to say who live here and deal with the problem firsthand."

Rodriguez said there was space for 1100 people in the California High School gym. Babysitting will be provided.

He suggested groups from various blocks along Broadmoor interested in attending this meeting might choose one representative to place on the meeting agenda as a spokesman.

"They can contact me at my office number, 828-7660," Rodriguez said.

No hospital bill, Boatwright blamed

The author of a bill to establish a commission regulating hospital fees withdrew it Friday, claiming that the medical Establishment lobbied it to death with the help of Concord Assemblyman Daniel Boatwright.

Boatwright, who represents the San Ramon Valley, was not available for comment, but his aide, Barry Brokaw, denied Assembly Member Barry Keene's charge. The bill, AB 1156, simply was referred to an interim committee hearing this fall, said Brokaw. Since the bill couldn't become law until 1979 because it is a "two year bill", Brokaw was mystified about why Keene withdrew the bill. While it is true that Keene's bill was amended in the Assembly's Health Committee, it didn't suffer that fate in the Ways and Means Committee, which was the target of Keene's wrath Friday.

Boatwright is chairperson of the Ways and Means Committee and drew the brunt of Keene's verbal blows.

"I have reluctantly concluded that your attack on the bill and your pronouncement that you will recast it into a good bill through your committee's interim process renders the bill no longer viable," Keene told Boatwright. He didn't get into specifics about what was at issue and he was not available for comment Friday because of an extremely busy telephone line.

Brokaw said that Boatwright does not oppose the principle behind Keene's bill. He wants to regulate health care costs. But there were too many "loopholes" in Keene's bill and that's why the hearings were set for fall. One example of a loophole was the bill's alleged failure to guarantee that health insurance plans would pass on savings on regulated hospital costs to their policy holders, said Brokaw.

Jack Smith, of the California Hospital Association, said there is another problem with Keene's bill. If President Carter gets his way, there

Working guy with working people shots

LIVERMORE — Bill Owens removed his Earth-shod feet from the redwood burl coffee table and took a phone call from Governor Brown's office.

He gave the ecologically-minded governor's staff what it wanted, free use of three photographs documenting urban sprawl for a free state government pamphlet to be published on land use.

Owens believes in the ecological cause more than any others in his suburban liberal pantheon and that's why he gave them free use of the prints. Otherwise, he has his standard professional fees to think of when he sends out prints from his first two books, "Suburbia" and "Our Kind of People", and now the third book, just debuted, called "Working: I Do It for the Money." Despite rising fame as one of the best young photographers in the United States, Owens needs the money. He won't make much money off his books, but they will help him into the field where it's possible to keep surviving with a wife, two kids and tract home: free lancing for advertising agencies and mass circulation magazines.

But the books need selling and his new publisher, Simon and Schuster, had enough clout to get Owens on the Today Show to plug his book. You can see him on the Labor Day broadcast. "I'm going to New York a few days early and I'll shoot the Today Show behind the scenes so they can show prints on the show Labor Day. Then I'll talk about my books for five minutes and go to the airport at 9 o'clock and fly out of New York City."

His prose style is as brisk and to the point as his captions in his books. His mind takes in details like the lens on his Pentax 6x7 camera.

The working book, which is supposed to be featured today in the New York Times Book Review, may be the most interesting of the trio, though Owens has a soft spot for the first one, "Suburbia".

Owens plotted the two years of work that went into "Working" by dividing it into five categories: blue collar, white collar, administrative, technical and service and farm workers. Despite the categorization, the people themselves blended well together because they fit into the same "American Christian ethic," said Owens. They "take pride in doing a good job, and most of them like the work they are doing."

So the Lordstown syndrome where assembly line workers hate their jobs and sabotage the products of their labor simply isn't true?

"Of all the places I saw, General Motors (in Fremont) was the most impressive in the speed and work they do. I didn't see anyone who was not productive. You put an inspection tag on it and it comes back to you if there's a problem."

"It gets into the New Republic one time that some workers don't like their jobs and all the liberals scream about it. That's what tees me off about the liberals in this

"A banana split has one banana, three lumps of ice milk, crushed pineapple, strawberries, chocolate syrup, and whipped cream. In two days of our 49 cent special, we sold 5,000 splits. Businessmen want a pretty face at the counter and counter girls have to have personality to deal with the public."

That's the caption for this picture from Bill Owens' new book, "Working: I Do It for the Money". Photo was taken at the Livermore Dairy Queen. Some of the subjects in the book are Valley residents.

Valley. I wouldn't mind working at GM and getting $311 a week."

"Working" even has the world's oldest profession, represented by an attractive woman in her San Rafael apartment. Owens found her by contacting Margo St. James' Coyote, an "Organization of Loose Women". The woman in the photo is from the group's speaker's bureau and she has addressed service club luncheons.

Owens likes two things best about his job: he is free to set up the conditions of his work and he enjoys the power of having an influence on American photography. He will be teaching at UC Extension, San Jose State and the San Francisco Art Institute this year and also travel nationally for lectures.

Will success spoil Bill Owens now that his star is rising?

"I don't look at myself as a rising star. I don't call myself an artist. I'm a photographer and photojournalist. I have ideas to communicate. I'm like a sociologist who examines who we are. As Pogo says, we have met the enemy and he is us."

will be a federal bill restricting health costs to a 9 per cent annual rise. If the state bill goes into effect too soon, hospitals could be put in the position of having to rebate money to patients retroactively in case the state law lags behind whatever the federal law turns out to be. That's why it's important to wait and see what the federal law will say, said Smith.

Valley Memorial Hospital Administrator Tom Andrews was unavailable for comment Friday on Keene's action. In the past he has endorsed the notion of a regulatory body commission for hospital rates, provided it is independent from government.

Andrews said that Valley Memorial's board of directors sets rates based on costs after carefully studying all contributing factors. "Our costs are too high and are going up too fast but we are doing everything we can think of to stop it," said Andrews. The community demands a certain level of service and that cost has to be taken into account, he said.

Keene maintained that hospital costs in Southern Alameda County and the Livermore area have risen 99 per cent in four years.

Suicide Thwarted

Sheriff's Deputy Ron Dack had to physically wrestle a .38 caliber revolver away from the suicidal woman.

New home prices are up $1,500

By MICHAEL DOAN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The price of new houses will go up another $700 to $1,500 because of a sudden increase in lumber prices in the last six weeks and a shortage of insulation, Housing Secretary Patricia Harris said Friday.

She said the Council on Wage and Price Stability will begin an immediate investigation into why lumber prices have risen between 12 and 28 per cent since July 1.

"Our concern is that increased prices in lumber and shortage of insulation may lead to time-consuming delays in housing construction," Mrs. Harris said. "The main result is increased cost, which is passed on to the consumer."

The average new house in the United States cost $51,300 in the first quarter of the year. The new lumber and insulation costs, alone, she said, will drive up prices $700 to $1,500.

Mrs. Harris said a 5 to 15 per cent increase in insulation costs is less dramatic but is a problem because of a shortage of material.

"It is our goal to make the standard home once again affordable to the average American family," she said.

A spokesman for the lumber industry said Mrs. Harris' remarks "are the start of another round of jaw-boning, which has never been successful in the past."

Housing costs are rising nearly twice as fast as personal income.

DUBLIN — A $1.39 tax rate for 1977-78 will be considered by the Valley Community Services District (VCSD) tomorrow evening at 7 p.m. in their general office at 7051 Dublin Boulevard, Dublin.

The current tax rate is $1.28 per $100 assessed valuation.

VCSD General Manager, Paul Ryan, and VCSD

Finance Officer, Ken Morrison, recommend the following to the VCSD board.

"1. Atax rate of $1.39 which includes the $0.39 Park and Recreation tax approved by the voters in 1975. The rate as adopted would be equalized to $1.427 for Alameda County and $1.384 for Contra Costa County.

2. Adopt a tax rate of $0.238 to pay the 1977-78 portion of the principal and interest for Improvement District No. 1."

The two officials mentioned that every penny in the downward adjustment of the tax rate would result in a reduction in revenue of approximately $12,000.

The increase of 10.3 per cent is estimated to generate $159,592 in additional tax revenues, according to the VCSD report.

The force behind downtown change

He came from Hawthorne, Calif., a somewhat less than quaint Los Angeles suburb, landing on his feet in Quality Financial Design, his money management - estate planning enterprise in Dublin.

He closed the doors on QFD a year ago, moving his family from Hayward to a hill off Happy Valley Road. A 5-acre spread with "a view of the entire Valley."

Business, needless to say, has been good.

"I seemed to be raising money for everybody else, so I decided to make some for myself," he says.

Ahhh, capitalism.

A doctor, an old friend, through down the gauntlet last year in claiming a financial consultant couldn't make as much money as a physician.

Forget medical school. Quality Financial Design provided not only his own capital springboard, but offered a field of potential investors as well.

He generally takes the project from raw land through design, contractors and financing. But he's not above renovation.

"I hope to do quite a bit in the city in new homes and the redevelopment of older homes and stores. . . Pleasanton needs to beef up its business to bring in more sales tax dollars. Sometime in the future I may invest directly in a retail business myself."

"It's all attitude," he says. "Going in with the right attitude. A big problem is people afraid to take the risk. But the risk is not that great."

Of the dozen or so projects he's undertaken to date — including an alfalfa sprout farm in the San Joaquin Valley — only two have failed. One was a wildcat oil venture.

"I like oil," he smiles.

At 41, he sees "retirement" in the near future. "I'll never totally retire, though. There will always be a couple of projects a year. It's kind of fun to take these things from the ground up, handling all the problems that come up."

"What I really do is take experts in different fields and bring them together. I get people to bring their expertise to each other. I'm not a carpenter."

"I really owe that doctor an awful lot."

Birthday Bash for Author

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Hundreds of friends dropped by to help blind Argentine author Jorge Luis Borges celebrate his 78th birthday at his small Buenos Aires apartment.

Borges, who has been proposed several times for the Nobel prize, had hardly sat down Wednesday for his breakfast of corn flakes and coffee when he was interrupted by a friend bearing a book of Scandinavian poetry and a bar of chocolate. Later, other friends from the literary, intellectual and political worlds dropped by.

VCSD candidates

Larson vows account approach

Stephen L. Larson, San Ramon, said if he is elected as a Valley Community Services District (VCSD) director Sept. 6 he will attempt to provide the board with an accountant's approach to the preparation and review of the District's annual budget.

Larson is a Certified Public Accountant. His business experience includes working as auditor for Arthur Young and Company. While employed by that company, he served as senior auditor on several governmental "engagements."

Later, he was Accounting Manager/ Controller for Rossmore in Walnut Creek. While there, he was responsible for the maintenance of financial records for the newspaper, medical clinic, bus line, public works department, recreation department, and general administrative department in addition to the 17 housing corporations residing in Rossmore Valley.

Larson stated the total budgeted revenues of all operating entities in Rossmore Valley equalled $50 million; total assets owned by entities in Rossmore Valley equalled $100 million.

He said he was responsible for the maintenance of satisfactory relations with federal government agencies, local city agencies and banking institutions. He was also responsible for the preparation of annual budgets and the monitoring of actual operations to determine whether budget was being complied to.

Presently, he is employed by Coopers and Lybrand. He developed accounting and reporting systems (manual and computerized) for governmental bodies and private enterprises. Also for Coopers and Lybrand, he developed work measurement and productivity monitoring systems for private enterprises and government entities.

If elected, Larson said his other goals were to review the district's investment policies and require the most advantageous use of the district's excess funds.

"I would initiate review of existing operational procedures to determine whether the District's resources (financial, physical and human) are utilized in the most efficient manner."

He stated he would review staff workloads, initiate review of present financial accounting and reporting systems, and scrutinize every financial transaction for propriety.

Larson said he was in favor of the incorporation of Dublin.

"I think a city should be able to determine its own growth pattern and not be represented by county people who don't even live in the area."

He contended if incorporation came about it would be all right if VCSD was dissolved or if it was kept intact to provide contractual services to the new city.

Regarding the pipeline issue, Larson said he was against dumping waste into the Bay.

"I think we should be able to come up with an alternate plan and dispose of it in other ways."

Get closer to people says Short

Harry M. Short, Dublin, stated he could offer mature judgement, open-minded representation and a sincere commitment to the betterment of Dublin if elected to a director's position on the Valley Community Services District board Sept. 6.

Short has been a Dublin resident 10 years. He said he was interested in contributing his time and effort on behalf of Dublin residents. He hoped he would be able to interest more people to participate in community activities.

Short is self-employed in the sales and marketing of advanced medical equipment and supplies in the San Francisco - Bay area Northern California area.

Short maintains the main issue in the upcoming election is whether each of the candidates is willing to extend the time, effort and mature judgement that is required for a position of this responsibility.

"It is my opinion that as a representative of the people of this community, it is the board members responsibility to ferret out the opinions of the people involved and render a decision on a given subject based on the desires of the people, rather than the individuals own feelings."

Short said he would like to see a closer relationship between the elected officials of VCSD and members of the community but did not intend that to be a put-down to present VCSD board members.

"I feel previous board members should be applauded for giving their time on behalf of the community. But at the same time, I also feel there comes a time when new blood should be infused and new perspectives put forth."

Short stated it was his hope people in the valley area will be better informed on issues concerning them and they will feel free to voice their opinions to VCSD board members.

Short's educational background includes a Bachelor of Arts Degree from San Jose State University in Public Relations/ Journalism.

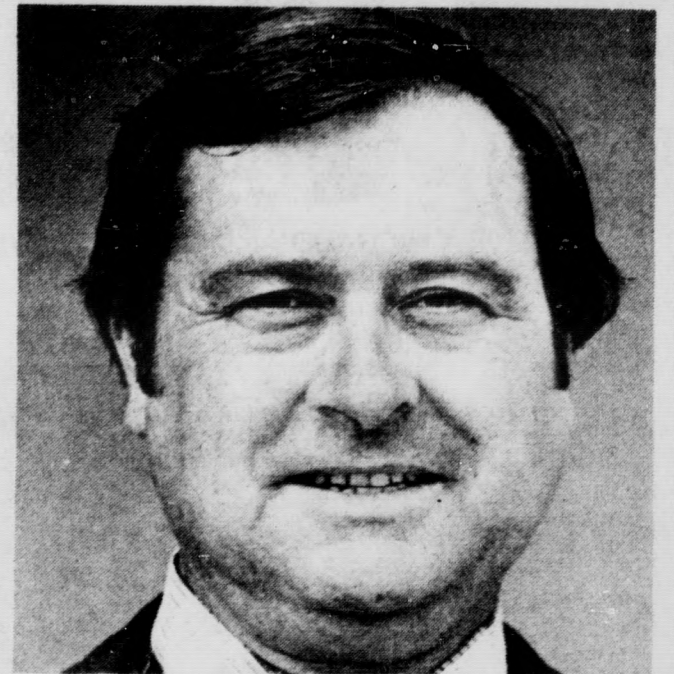

Additional courses taken by Short at Post-Graduate levels were in Sales, Marketing, Advertising, Sales Promotion, Accounting, Sales Management, Marketing Management. These courses were taken at Golden Gate University.

He also majored in Liberal Arts with a minor in Psychology at the University of Oregon. At UCLA he took a course in Bio-Medical Engineering which he completed in 1972 at Los Angeles.

Short said the pipeline issue was "not much of an issue."

"It's going to happen one way or another. It's just a matter of size."

COVA director resigns Sept. 6, she'll return to college

COVA Executive Director Bette Meyer, appointed in January, 1975, to serve as the Congress of Valley Agencies' first director, has resigned her post effective Sept. 6.

She is moving north to earn her doctorate in history at the University of Washington "with the idea of going into historical preservation," she said. Meyer was named to the post a few months after the fledgling agency began. COVA, a consortium of representatives from Valley Community Services District, Zone 7 of the county's water district, and the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton, grew from the former Valley Planning Committee.

As executive director, she saw COVA through a series of squabbles that climaxed earlier this year in Pleasanton's withdrawal.

"I decided it was time for a change," Meyer said, "and that change will be a Ph.D. I'm going to miss COVA and the Valley. I've met a lot of nice people."

"I think she's been an excellent executive director," said Livermore Mayor Helen Tirsell, who served as COVA chair when Meyer was selected. "I know historical preservation has been her real love."

Current COVA chair and VCSD director Lila Euler echoed the Mayor's sentiments.

"I'm sorry to see Bette moving on. In the years she's been with COVA, she's done an excellent job, especially with the Senior Citizens Gold Card program. "She's been very helpful to the Valley Transportation Committee."

Meyer earned her bachelors and masters degrees at Eastern Washington State University at Cheney.

She lived in the Valley four years before taking the COVA post, spending her time as a free-lance researcher and writing geology and history.

She worked part-time for COVA as its only paid employee.

A search for her replacement will begin immediately, Euler said.

The post pays $4.84 per hour, according to the city of Pleasanton, which administers the salary.

Chabot has classes for rusty students

Chabot College has scheduled special classes this fall for students who have been out of school for many years. College officials have pointed out many older students know what classes are of interest to them while others have little idea of where to begin.

The college has scheduled a series of classes titled "College and the Mature Man" and "College and the Mature Woman" designed to help older students beginning or reentering college.

The women's course will study educational opportunities in the community, family relationships and vocational possibilities. The men's class will study the psychological development of the adult male, career change possibilities, and the meaning of masculinity.

Chabot officials have said both courses are for individuals who have been busy raising families and are now considering entering the labor force or want to complete their education.

The women's day course, begins Sept. 19 and will be offered Mondays and Tuesdays or Wednesdays and Thursdays at the Hayward campus from noon to 1:50 p.m. and the Valley campus in Livermore 11:30 a.m. to 1:20 p.m. The evening class is scheduled for Tuesdays and Thursdays starting Sept. 20 from 8:30 p.m. to 10:20 p.m. at the Hayward campus only. The men's class will be offered in Hayward Tuesdays and Thursdays starting Sept. 20 from 8:30 p.m. to 10:20 p.m.

For information on day classes call the Hayward campus, 782-3000 extension 444 or the Valley campus, 455-5300. For evening class information call the Hayward campus, 783-3000 extension 448.

NEW ALTMAN FILM
NEW YORK (AP) — Nina Van Pallandt, Dina Merrill and Peggy Ann Garner will star in Robert Altman's new 20th Century-Fox film, "A Wedding," which goes into production mid-June. This is producer-director Altman's 12th film in eight years.

Altman remains best known for his smash hit "M.A.S.H." His most recent films include "The Late Show," "Welcome to L.A." and "3 Women."

County clocks traffic speed

But he also urged the rest of the involved group members and anyone else interested in stopping speeding drivers on Broadmoor Drive to attend.

"Our strength lies in numbers," Rodrigues said.

One concrete evidence of county interest was shown when Leroy Vukad arranged a traffic survey at the intersection of Broadmoor and Westchester Drive. Vukad is Traffic Engineer from the Contra Costa County Department of Public Works.

"Vukad said the survey showed an average speed of 36 miles per hour on Broadmoor Drive," Rodrigues noted. "The high average was 48 miles per hour. That was being driven by adults, not teenagers."

The speed limit on Broadmoor Drive is 25 miles per hour.

Rodrigues said California Highway Patrol representatives mentioned they were unable to do their best since they were undermanned.

Police protection service should improve since Contra Costa County fifth district Supervisor, Eric Hasseltine pushed through a $113,000 county budget allotment to expand the sheriff's patrol service in the San Ramon Valley area, Rodrigues contended.

Getting steamed up — and loving it — in those hot tubs

The water's hot, kept at a comforting temperature about 108 degrees. It's made of wood, and people try them out both au naturel (for the less conservative) and with bathing suits. What is it? A hot tub, a handy back-yard item that seems to be catching on in the Valley.

The tubs, made of smooth redwood and costing upwards of $800, are praised by just about everyone who has ever sat inside one.

"They're really soothing and relaxing," says Pleasanton real estate agent Rich White. "We use it in all kinds of weather — and we're hooked."

Kudriavtseff, who plans on installing his own personal tub at home, says that the tub is "therapeutic" and not too expensive. In his shop, the hot tubs range from $1000 for a complete package on the smallest tub, to $1700 for a complete kit for a tub that's four feet high and six feet wide.

Maintenance, he adds, is "really simple." Small heaters are used, there's little plumbing, and an optional hook-up for swirling hydro-jets.

Then, simply put what's called a "thermal blanket" over the tub to help maintain temperature and conserve energy, he says.

One Pleasanton couple, Rich and Jan White, say they are "absolutely hooked" on their tub.

Rich, a real estate agent in Dublin, says that he happened to see one in a dealer's showroom. "At first, I thought they were exorbitant. Then I went and sat in the tub," Jan recalls. "We sat there for four hours with some friends, talking and just relaxing. That did it. 'I decided to plan financially to get one,' Rich adds, "because they really are an investment."

"It's stimulating, but at the same time physically relaxing," says Jan. "We've been out there when it's cold, rainy. The combination of heat and steam is just great." After pressure on the job, adds Rich, "it's very peaceful to come home and get in the tub. Some people have martinis, but I have my hot tub."

Chris Kudriavtseff says he just started carrying the heated redwood hot tubs — which can cost up to $1700 and more — in his Pleasanton Woodwork store because of their growing popularity elsewhere.

The couple says they do a great deal of entertaining in the tub as well. "Half the neighborhood's been in it," Rich says with a smile. "When the kids get in it, we can't get them out."

"It's like a conversation pit in a way," he adds. "It's really a nice evening to sit and chat, maybe with a glass of wine, together with your friends."

The couples maintains the heat with a thermal blanket, then checks regularly for proper levels of regular swimming pool chemicals. Rich installed the tub himself, after getting a swimming pool permit from the city. And eventually, Jan says, the couple plans on installing plants and "atmosphere" around their tub.

Although Jan says the tub fits eight comfortably, she laughs when she recalls a New Year's Eve party. "People don't drink as much — they all end up in the tub instead. We had 11 people in there that night."

With 11 people, only two, or a crowd of kids, it seems that more and more area people are getting soaked — and loving it — in those heated tubs.

— by Carla Marinucci

Neighborhood kids find a special attraction in the hot tub — it's a wet and wild playground. But grownups love it just as much, say this tub's owner, Pleasanton couple Rich and Jan White.

Camp for a special child

Merlin Martin-Young is the only child in this area to attend the special camp for crippled children, Camp Harmon, in the Santa Cruz Mountains this year.

He has taken out his sleeping bag and his new pocket knife and flashlight quite often, in anticipation of the new experience.

The San Ramon boy, who has a mild case of Cerebral Palsy and has had three major operations on his legs with bone grafts, will participate in the usual camp activities such as horse-back riding, camp fires, and arts and crafts, specially designed for handicapped campers to develop a sense of personal worth and self acceptance.

The Young family has lived in the Dublin area for eight years, and because there is no school for the handicapped in the area, Merlin travelled by bus every day to Sunset School for handicapped children in Hayward.

Recently Lynn and Rita Young, Merlin's parents, moved with Merlin and his younger sister Nikki to a new home in San Ramon.

Because of this move, it was necessary for Merlin to change schools, a traumatic event for any child, but especially so for a child who doesn't get around as easily as most kids, and who is dependent on his school chums for friendships.

So Merlin started to attend a regular school for the first time, attending special classes, bussed this time to Walnut Creek's Muirwood School.

Merlin's father, Lynn

Young says of the situation, "We're now waiting to see how it works out. Any problems, we'll move back to Alameda County."

He and Merlin's mother, Rita, praised Alameda County's Sunset School highly. "It's like a big family at Sunset. They didn't want to release Merlin."

Doctors work closely with the school and the teachers are specially trained to work with a variety of problems in their young charges, according to the Youngs. Physical therapy was administered at the school.

Both parents are proud of his work in school. The Youngs describe Sunset School as a melting pot, whose handicapped students include those with muscular dystrophy, cerebral palsy and different degrees of retardation. There was a protective atmosphere, say the Youngs.

Of Merlin's new school Lynn concedes, "It's more like real life. I think it's going to work out pretty well. But, being a regular school, it isn't as closely involved with the Crippled Children Society, the Kiwanis Clubs and the Easter Seal Society."

Rita explained that there are some problems in moving to a new neighborhood, too. "School, and his friends, are far away." It's hard to find friends besides.

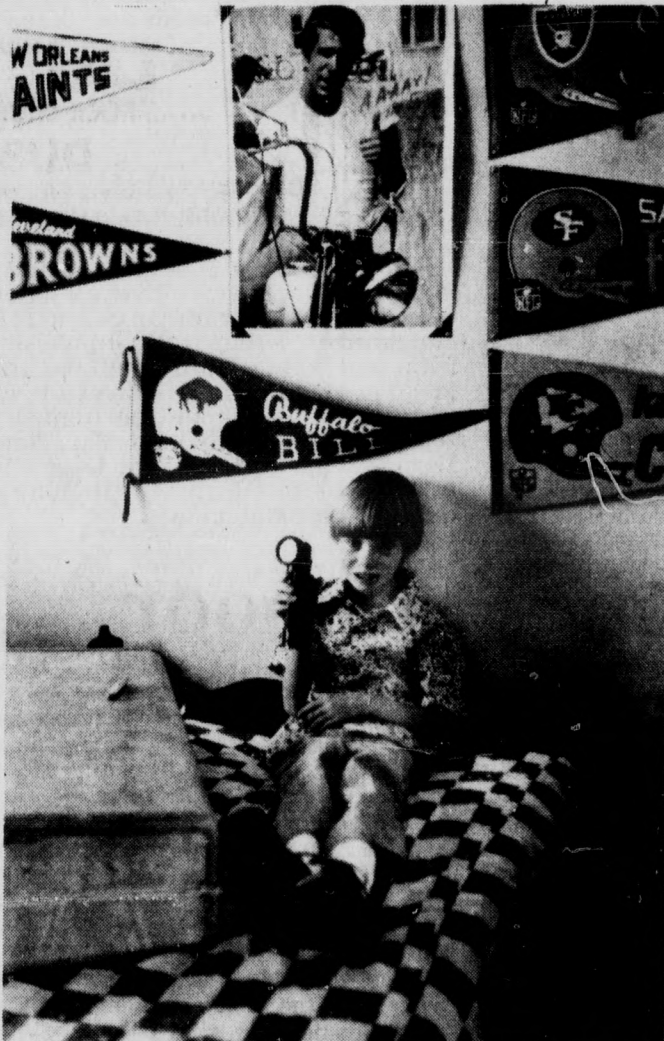

cause there are no kids Merlin's age in the neighborhood, says the concerned mother.

If it gets too lonely for Merlin, Lynn vows they will "find a street with kids on it."

In the meantime Merlin will be enjoying a camping experience which promises to be memorable. His proud father knows that Merlin will do all right at camp. "He does anything he wants to do," (Lynn has taught the boy golf.) And, Lynn adds proudly, "He's come a long way."

A special boy, Merlin Martin-Young, will attend a special camp owned and operated by the Easter Seal Society for Crippled children.

Favorite olive bread recipe here at last

Due to a technical error, this recipe for old-fashioned olive bread was omitted from an article in a recent Lifestyle page. For all the valley gourmets who called about it — here it is, at last:

RIPE OLIVE SKILLET BREAD

- 1 can pitted ripe olives
- 4 cups biscuit mix
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder

- 1/4 cup dehydrated mashed potato flakes
- 3 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 cup grated Monterey Jack cheese
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 1 egg, lightly beaten

Drain olives, cut into wedges. In large bowl mix together biscuit mix, garlic powder, potato flakes, minced onion, olives and cheese. Measure remaining ingredients into separate bowl and mix together thoroughly. Add liquid all at once to dry ingredients. Stir just until flour is moistened. Turn into well greased 9-inch skillet. Flour hands and pat into rounded shape. Brush with egg wash or butter, if desired. Bake in 375° oven about 45 minutes or until tests done. Makes 1 (9-inch) round loaf.

The big demand for flank steak and the fact that there are only two per beef carcass affects both availability and price. There is no waste in this lean boneless muscle which may weigh between 1 1/2 and 2 1/2 pounds. A marinated flank steak is indeed a special treat for the barbecue season. It's a great family steak and is easy to cut into thin diagonal slices across the grain to get look alike servings. The flavor is great.

MARINATED FLANK STEAK

- 1 beef flank steak

- 1/2 cup catsup
- 1/2 cup red wine vinegar
- 1/2 cup red table wine
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 small clove garlic, crushed
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1 beef bouillon cube
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch

Marinate beef several hours or overnight in mixture of catsup, vinegar, wine, Worcestershire sauce, onion, garlic, mustard and oil. Drain, reserving marinade. Broil or barbecue steak to rare or medium rare. Meanwhile combine marinade with bouillon cube, water and cornstarch. Heat, stirring until sauce boils and thickens. Slice beef diagonally across the grain. Serve with sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

September nuptials planned

Janine Elaine Rowley and Douglas O. Cooley recently announced their engagement at a family dinner given by the future bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rowley of Concord, and attended by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond French of Seattle. They plan a September wedding.

Janine is a graduate of Concord High School and Diablo Valley College. During her school years in Concord, she served as a Young Life leader. In May, 1976, Janine received her B.S. degree in biology from Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash. She is currently enrolled in graduate school at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Douglas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cooley of Everett, Wash. He, too, is a graduate of Whitworth College, receiving his B.A. degree in English last May.

VCSD's board

The voters are drawn from just within Dublin and the southern portion of San Ramon Valley. But the election is of vital interest to 120,000 people, spread across these 600 square miles.

The action of any one agency, within any single community, can often find quick impact on a neighboring hamlet these days. This one suburban confine embraces two cities, five communities in all, within portions of two counties. We are served by thirteen elected boards, more than a score of commissions.

But we are as one with the air we breathe, the water we drink, the wastes we must discharge.

The Valley Community Services District has a role to play in this basin, within these two counties. It is a role which 90,000 people residing outside that district have yet to understand.

This week, the electorate of Dublin and San Ramon is asked to mail in a ballot for two vacancies on the VCSD board of directors. While immediate concern must be for VCSD as a "community services district", still those voters have come to accept that board as an important participant in the regional scheme of things. Regardless of who represents them, the residents of Dublin and San Ramon will, in the long run, be best served by an agency which provides aggressive leadership in solving problems that go well beyond the confines of any one community.

Our own recommendation for the VCSD board goes to Lila Euler, because she is an incumbent who has worked hard at her post, and who now deserves the tribute of her constituents; we suggest Kathy Waterson for that second board post, because she has been a consistent, persistent worker for her community over the last five years.

The Sacto shuffle

It has been said that our incumbent governor is "an enigma in search of a riddle." Judging by recent reports out of Sacramento, it looks like the search is proceeding as planned.

Jerry Brown won a great deal of attention — most of it national with his "lower your expectations" credo. Coming from a liberal Democrat, it was a policy even conservative Republicans might praise. When Jerry bounced right back with that "no tax increases and no new taxes during my administration" line, home-owning, taxpaying Californians everywhere were dancing in the streets.

But not for long. While the new "tax relief package" recently hammered out by the governor's legislative team might appear to contain "no new taxes", the fact is we were supposed to be getting substantial "tax refunds" ... a return on that $2 billion paid "in error" over the last several years by middle income taxpayers who were inadvertently thrust into the higher tax brackets, strictly because of inflation.

That promise of "tax refunds" has been downplayed of late. Now they are boasting about "school finance equalization" and "relieving the tax burden of those who can least afford to pay." All of which is commendable; none of which has a damned thing to do about "refunding taxes that never should have been paid in the first place."

When Governor Brown talked so bravely about "lowering our expectations" he was apparently looking at the state, or perhaps the White House, from his own enigmatic vantage point. Given the state of the art, and the makeup of the man, a better motto might have been — "Never get your hopes too high when it comes to political promises."

That's one promise even us dumb taxpayers can understand.

Freeway ripples

If you think the governor's "tax relief" program is confusing, consider for a moment that alleged plan for building, or maintaining, California's world-famous network of highways and byways.

Jerry Brown had no sooner taken office than he discovered California was "broke" ... in terms of money available to build new roads, or maintain the ones we already have. We didn't even have the ten percent matching fund available to qualify for 90 percent federal funding of new freeways, the governor said.

Remember the fight to get phase one state contributions to enable the feds to complete Interstate 580 through Dublin Canyon? God knows where phase two of that project stands.

But wait! Along comes a grand plan to "save downtown Oakland by attracting private investment in a major new retail complex." All that's needed, Oakland's liberal leadership argues, is completion of the Grove-Shafter freeway.

Now if you're going to ask "What's a new freeway got to do with reviving downtown Oakland?", then you aren't a student of big-city economics; and if you have to ask, "Aren't freeways supposed to be the worst thing that can happen to a city's core area?", then you aren't a good politician.

Even more interesting is where Jerry Brown "found" the $30 million that he now intends to pump into Grove-Shafter, to save downtown Oakland etc. etc. Turn out there's another $330 million where that came from. Senator Robert Presley chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee, has discovered $360 million accumulated in state highway reserves that "either was not needed, or, due to bad management, could not be spent."

And while inflation erodes that $360 million, California has been passing up matching federal funds, and allowing our own fine road system of yesteryear to go to ruin ... a disaster rectified elsewhere on this page by columnist Earl Waters.

But Governor Brown can find $30 million timely dollars to build a freeway through downtown Oakland, probably the lowest-priority project in 58 counties. Interesting.

EARL WATERS

Rough road

Does riding down the highway give you the feeling of travelling over a washboard? If it does it is not surprising. For, despite the boasts over many years that California has the best and most modern highway system in America, the roadways are beginning to deteriorate.

The operative word is maintenance and it is becoming rapidly clear to even the casual motorist that the state is falling behind in its maintenance programs.

To understand why this is happening it is necessary to know the gigantic nature of the job of keeping the state highways up to tandard.

Total mileage of all highways within the state system adds up to more than 15,000 and represents an investment in excess of $15 billion. Since the start of that investment dates back to 1920 the replacement value of the roads at today's dollar is estimated in excess of $50 billion.

Yet, for the maintenance of this huge capital investment the state will spend only $150 million this year and about $180 million in the next fiscal year. While that is a 20 per cent increase in the maintenance budget in one year it remains that the total represents less than 1/2 per cent depreciation allowance, far too low a figure for adequate upkeep even without constant inflation.

And inflation, of course, has been a significant contributing factor to the inability of the state to keep up with maintenance needs. In fact it is the underlying cause for the ongoing debates as to the adequacy of current highway fund revenues.

With all the vast network of freeways and highways in the state system there is still need for more. Many planned roadways are yet to be started and quite a few which have been started are still to be completed. Yet, Transportation Department officials, headed by its director, Adrianna Gianturco, are constantly telling the public there isn't enough money.

Although charges have been flying Gianturco, admittedly an advocate of mass transit and far from an ardent supporter of more highways, has been hoarding highway funds, the facts seem to be that even if surpluses are existent they are still far short of what is needed.

True, the dollar yield from the gasoline tax has been growing yearly as more and more cars hit and road but the tax, assessed on gallons, has been

Let's give this careful thought

Letters to the Times

Livermore transit

To The Times:

(Attention Ron McNicoll)

Would you please check your facts? The $500,000 subsidy (to Livermore) from the Metropolitan Transportation Commission is not "to help buy the land" for a BART station. It is for use on our local transportation system and part, or most, of the $500,000 can be used to pay operating costs of the new proposed pilot bus program which may be put in by March, 1978, for a trial period of 18 months.

The money is to be used for transportation needs, and the bus system which the city will be contracting for from the A.C. System could have operations paid out of this subsidy (these costs do not run as high as $500,000).

It is important that you explain that this subsidy is not specifically for land acquisition; it can be used for other transportation needs.

Coors protests

Editor, The Times:

The Alameda County Board of Supervisors recently passed a resolution opposing the sale of Coors beer at the Oakland Coliseum. This resolution was based upon Board Chairman's Santana's allegation that Coors engaged in "discriminatory hiring practices."

We strongly protest this undemocratic and wrongful action by the Board of Supervisors. Neither our Company nor the Coors Brewery was contacted by Mr. Santana regarding hiring practices nor were we given any notice that an anti-Coors resolution would be considered by the Board of Supervisors.

Our locally owned Company employs 18 people who are local residents and 6 of these are minority (4 Blacks, 1 Mexican-American and 1 Oriental). There is no other beer distributor in Alameda County which has anywhere near a 33% representation of minority employees as our Company does.

It is most ironic and unfortunate that if Mr. Santana's remarks are believed by the general public, it will have the effect of punishing the only beer distributor in Alameda County which has a true commitment to meaningful minority hiring practices.

Motorcycle speed

Editor, The Times:

I am hoping you will print my letter as I think its important to the lives of our children on Albatross St.

I live on Albatross street (in Livermore) and am concerned with the motorcyclist going up and down on our street speeding — they must floor it as soon as they hit the corner from Olivana Ave. ...

Their loud also which is annoying but the speed that they travel is what makes me mad. There are small children living on this street. If they happen to run in the road when one of the motorcycles come speeding up the street the child wouldn't have a chance. Getting hit at that speed they would be killed for sure.

It took a couple of years for us to get a crossing guard down on the corner of Albatross & Olivana so that our school age children could cross the street in safety — now they are not safe in front of their own home — "Something needs to be done."

I am sending a copy of this letter to the police dept. also.

Tracing the poor

HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano, Jr. says that myths about the poor hamper reform of this country's welfare system. Writing in the September issue of Reader's Digest, Califano sets out the most prevalent misconceptions and then debunks them:

People are poor because they don't work and don't want to work. In fact, 90

Today, Tomorrow

A University professor was privileged to share a television radio broadcast with six other speakers. He was given ten minutes and his subject was SEX.

Evidently there was a foul-up in the timing — the poor fellow as the final speaker and when his turn came, he had but two minutes — not ten.

He thought a second, stepped to the microphones and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, — it gives me great pleasure" — and sat down.

percent of poor Americans either work at least part-time or belong to that category — the young, the aged, mothers of small children — society traditionally doesn't insist be employed.

Most of the poor are poor for life. Not true, the Secretary declares. The poverty population is extremely fluid. "From 1967 through 1972 only three percent of Americans were poor in every one of those six years," he points out.

The poor are mostly black and non-white. To the contrary, 60 percent of America's poor are white.

Payments for welfare families are much too high. Just don't try to live on them. The official poverty level for a family of four was only $5500 in 1975. Califano points out that in 24 states, welfare payments amount to only three quarters of that sum.

"To achieve effective reform, we must all have a realistic understanding of poverty in America, and realistic expectations of what government can do to ameliorate poverty's brutal impact," he concludes.

constant and thus doesn't reflect inflation as it would had it been assessed on dollar sales. Construction and maintenance costs have been drastically changed by inflation and that is the real rub.

Other factors contributing to the enlarging gap between available funds and maintenance needs have been arbitrary limitations set by the Legislature on amounts to be spent on road repairs and the added mileages of newly constructed roads. Also, not inconsequential, has been the truckers ability to lobby legislation permitting them full use of all lanes and a substantial weight increase in loads.

Ironically, while the total impact of highway wearing has not yet registered with the public, the truckers, whose contribution to the highway breakdowns is far greater than the motorists, are the ones presently complaining the loudest.

And, although some insiders in the highway department predict the roads will get worse before they get better, Assembly and Senate Transportation committees chairmen, Walter Ingalls and Robert Preston, both express great concern and are taking action to provide more money for road upkeep. Already the limits for maintenance spending have been removed and Ingalls is pushing legislation to give the Legislature full control over highway money budgeting.

Round the town

It has been another fascinating week for news. Never among the leaders in the year's news makers, August has simply outdone itself this time around.

Actually, the week began where its predecessor left off ... the departure of the great Elvis from this earth. The term "larger than life" might be difficult to apply to the generous portions of Mr. Presley, but it is a fact that, in death, Elvis used up a huge amount of the nation's focus ... filling the airwaves, jamming the news pages for days and days following his untimely demise.

At week's end, Elvis was still at it. A survey of the nation's news media rated the parting of Presley as August's Number One Story ... well ahead of the capture of Son of Sam, and completely overshadowing the banking hankypanky of President Carter's Budget Director.

Not to mention President Jim's own little overdraft. A mere matter of a few thousand ... something Jim overlooked when he was campaigning for the presidency ... using money and airplanes made available from the bank owned by the man who was to become the Budget Director ... who would then reveal his own sloppy banking practices ...

Shocking? A sort of Cartegate the press would pounce on with uprightness gusto? Hardly.

"I have complete faith in my Budget Director," the president pronounced, with sincerity.

"I have complete faith in my president," said Jim's banker, who is now the nation's Budget Director. With mutual faith like that, how could America have any doubts?

Particularly in the week when Elvis was laid to rest.

"How could you put Elvis back on page eleven?" one reader wrote us. "Behind the comic page, even!" She is no longer our reader. Of such editorial goofs as this are great newspapers brought to their knees.

We didn't even cover the president's overdraft, come to think of it. Our week began with an encouraging report from a local Republican. Which is really quite a story, when you think about it. When is the last time you read about an encouraging Republican?

We moved quickly through the "Santa Rita Turmoil" (which one? I don't know. Take your pick.) Breezed by that "missing uranium, chapter 27" and hit our mid-week stride with a fascinating piece on "Julie Nixon Eisenhower — looking ahead to life." When is the last time you read about any Nixon Eisenhower who was looking ahead to anything?

HERSHEY BAR PRICES DOUBLE — SIZE SHRINKS. That was Thursday's scoop. As Friday dawned, we were deep into wells, high on pipelines.

While the metropolitan press continued to remind us how really big Elvis had been in life. But bigger in the hereafter.

Lance went to China. Or was it Vance? A citizen can't tell one Cartegate from another. Only their banker knows. Or you could ask Robert Lipshutz. He's the White House Counsel, you may recall. Grand guy. Will talk to you anytime, as long as you don't ask about President Jim's private affairs ... the Georgia overdraft ... the swinging Budget Director. That sort of thing.

Israel? China? Nuclear bombs in South Africa? The White House press corps has answers for the nation's press, in triplicate. President Jim is true to his word ... "keeping this office open to the American people." But please don't ask about those silly overdrafts.

At week's end, the United States Government had gained court approval to pry into the Nixon archives ... bunch of cardboard boxes that President Dick had left behind. He says the boxes hold nothing but personal stuff, old Reader's Digests and that sort of thing.

"They are in truth valuable treasures!" says the Carter government. "Given to this nation by friendly, foreign powers, such as South Africa, which is still indebted to us for our tips on how to make a nuclear bomb."

So the United States Government goes probing into the Nixon cardboard boxes. Could take years, right on through to the 1980 presidential elections. Watergate is not dead; it is hiding in a bunch of cardboard boxes.

"I have no desire to further impugn the integrity of Richard Nixon," says President Jim's Chief of Protocol. "But there are sufficient allegations that give me concern ..."

There is always sufficient concern. By those who enjoy power. And a friendly press. Keeping the American people abreast of all things vital. In the final days of summer. From Vance to Lance to Lipshutz. And a presidential tribute for Elvis.

But please, no more questions about banking practices in Georgia. Presidential overdrafts. And other such foolishness.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS:

I had an abortion when I was 18 and I'm now a mother of two teen-aged daughters. I desperately want them to be sexually responsible. I don't want them to go through what I went through. I certainly don't want them to have a baby they won't be prepared to care for or give the kind of home it deserves. The point is that I'm worried. So many girls around here think it's smart to get pregnant. How can a parent cope with this? — E.K.

DEAR E.K.: The best way is probably to establish a close one-to-one relationship with children from the very beginning, to give them the love and the respect they need so they won't have to turn to friends for the support they really want from their parents.

The more straightforward sex education at home and at school, the more apt your daughters will be to realize the dangers of experimenting with sex before they are prepared or ready for the consequences. Ideally, you should be able to talk about the problems in a friendly, non-threatening way so that they realize the enormous discipline and responsibility a teenager faces in today's world.

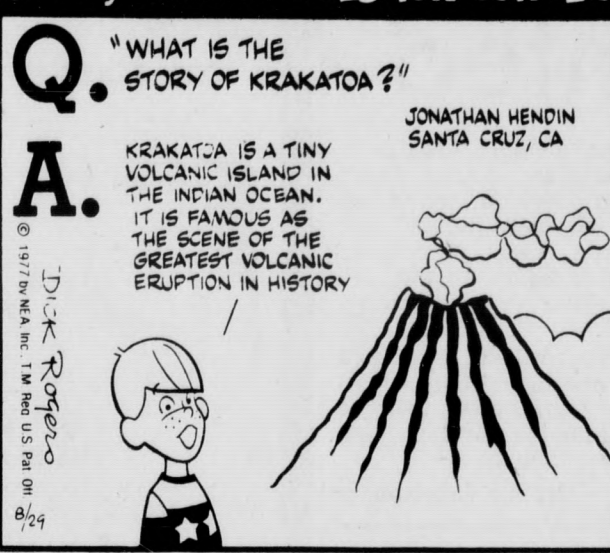

One of the problems is that young people can't rely on society's taboos against early sexual relations. In reality, peer pressure often drives the insecure into premature sexual activity. Teenagers often have sex to try to prove something to themselves. If you have made your daughters feel secure, and have given them self-respect and self-esteem, you have gone a long way toward making them sexually responsible.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I've been told by one of my psych teachers that I'm a very intuitive person. I should think this would make my relations with others a lot easier. Well, I guess it does help in making friends, but it doesn't seem to be any advantage at all in my love life. I'm beginning to think I may be doomed to the single life. — C.C.

DEAR C.C.: Don't give up. It may be that you just haven't met the person who is right for you. Whatever your age, there's still more time if you allow yourself to be open to new experiences, warmth and giving. Try to avoid jumping to too quick an analysis of a person and then setting up defensive blocks against him.

Intuition doesn't seem to help much in affairs of the heart but you might be the exception. Studies indicate that highly intuitive people tend to have far more difficulty in achieving happy marriages than those who are less intuitive. It was also found that the most intuitive were more likely to remain single than others. However, you'll be pleased to know that most appeared to be quite happy in their single state. In fact, some considered singleness essential in developing their own potential.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

You may have read about an island in the Indian Ocean called Krakatoa (say KRAH-kuh-TOE-uh) where a great volcano erupted many years ago.

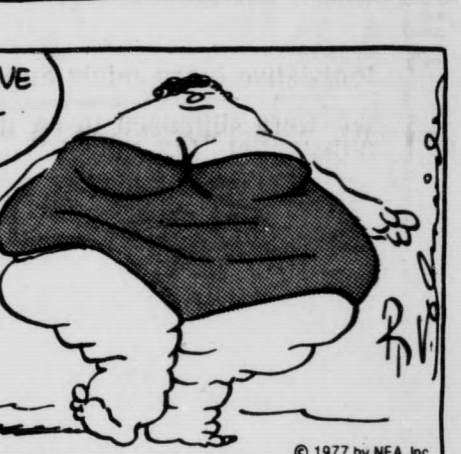

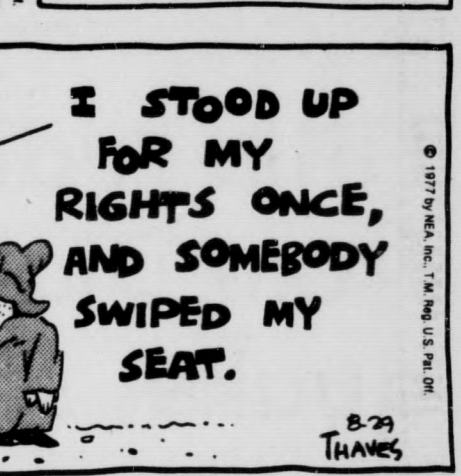

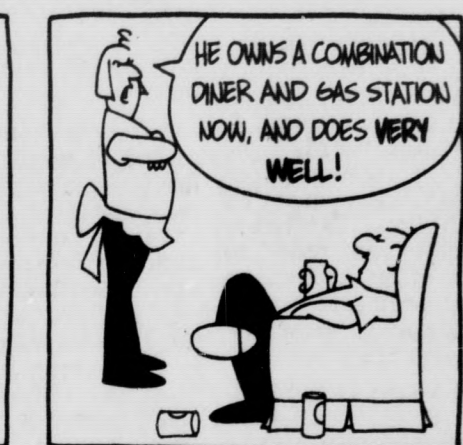

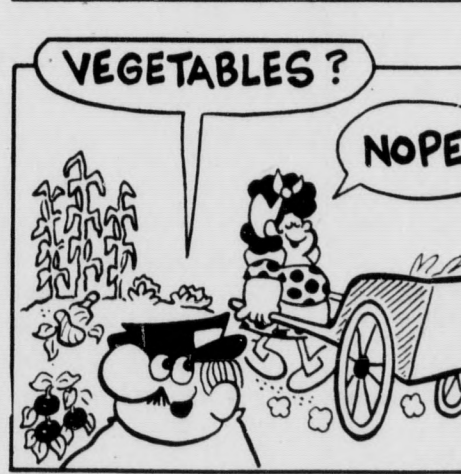

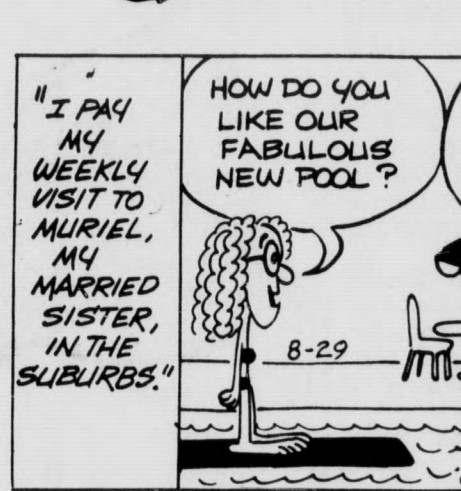

This tiny island was formed by an ancient volcano. For more than 200 years, the volcano had been silent.

But in 1883, a series of mighty eruptions began to rock the island. So violent were the explosions that they were heard 3,000 miles away, and were probably the loudest noises ever heard by human ears.

Windows were broken and plaster walls were cracked 100 miles away. Great masses of rock and dense clouds of dust and ashes were hurled high

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have high blood pressure. I am taking medicine for it. If you take garlic pills or eat fresh garlic will your blood pressure go down? I've had so many people tell me this. When I go to the hospital my blood pressure is normal. My blood pressure is 162 over 98 and I am 56. Is that too high?

DEAR READER — The only way garlic helps blood pressure is if people make you nervous and raise your pressure. The garlic will help you avoid people. Seriously, there is no truth in the often repeated claim that garlic helps lower blood pressure.

If by going to the hospital you mean staying in bed in the hospital, it is true that when a person with mildly elevated pressure is put at bed rest the pressure often falls.

Why? Because the bed rest results in flushing out salt (sodium) and water from the body tissues. These people often get similar results from taking one of the diuretics commonly used in the treatment of mildly elevated blood pressure.

Your pressure is not high enough to cause anyone to be disturbed about it or to give you strong medicines but it is abnormal if it persists at those levels. If it is that high only part of the time when you are tense it might not be so important.

For mild high blood pressure the first and most important thing to do is eliminate any extra fat stores you can from your body by a sensible diet and mild exercise program such as walking.

If weight control does not result in decreasing the pressure enough then the doctor may want to use one of the diuretics. That is usually sufficient in mild cases. If high pressure persists he may want to use other medicines.

Anyone who has elevated blood pressure should eliminate stimulants — especially coffee, tea, and colas, and try to avoid stressful situations.

DEAR DR. LAMB — For some months now I've been goofy over Bromo-Seltzer. I take three or four glasses a day and have been wondering if it does any harm. I often use it as a pop.

DEAR READER — It makes a difference how much powder you put in each glass. The truth is that if a person takes a lot of bromide from any source — and Bromo-Seltzer contains potassium bromide — over a period of time they run the risk of bromide poisoning.

It may cause drowsiness, neurological and emotional disturbances, a rash and other more serious effects.

I doubt you will have this problem if you limit your use of it, but regular use in large amounts should be avoided.

Large organizations, clubs or groups will be very lucky for you this coming year. If you don't belong to any, you'd be wise to get a few application blanks.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're on very shaky ground when you deal with others on a one-to-one basis today. Be extremely careful not to be arrogant or dictatorial.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Should there be something that you're bound to do today by honor or duty, don't neglect it. It could crop up later and cause a real brouhaha.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'd be smart to let others share the stage with you socially today. Allow all the characters to have at least a few lines.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Outsiders and in-laws are outlaws today where your family affairs are involved. They might well try to tell you how to run the show.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone with a forceful personality might attempt to downgrade your ideas today. Don't be intimidated just because this guy has a big mouth.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Don't be outmaneuvered today when it's time to pay the check. Have another cup of coffee and wait until the waiter picks up his share.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your mate may think he has all the answers today and must make all the big decisions. Let him know you, too, are entitled to a voice.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't put any extra strains on your health today. Observe sensible eating and drinking habits and avoid overindulgence.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Complications with friends could develop today if one or both is too insistent on having his or her own way. If a pal is rigid, you should be flexible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You can be led today, but not pushed. Unfortunately, someone is prodding you to do something that'll benefit them more than you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful that a friendly discussion on philosophy or politics doesn't turn into a fracas with both parties getting hot under the collar.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Joint ventures could pose a problem for you today if you feel the other party is not contributing equally, financially or intellectually.

Sometimes dummy's trumps are needed to ruff one of declarer's losers. On other occasions they may be needed to keep the defense from getting control of the hand. A third and rare use is to enable declarer to get back to his hand in order to lead up to dummy for a second or third time.

South wins the club lead with his ace. If he always draws trumps when he had full trump control, he plays out three or four trumps and leads a low spade toward dummy.

If West just ducks the hand collapses. South will try to get back to his hand with a diamond. His king will lose to West's ace and a second club lead will knock out dummy's king and South will wind up losing one spade, two diamonds, a club and his partner's good opinion.

South can afford one trump lead. Then he plays the spade. West ducks, but now South can use dummy's other trump to get back to his hand. He plays a couple more trumps, leads a second spade and eventually will get to discard his potential club loser on dummy's king or queen of spades.

Chamber asks county help on cityhood

DUBLIN — The Dublin Chamber of Commerce has asked the Alameda County Board of Supervisors for help in pursuing the chamber's proposed goal of incorporating Dublin.

Chamber Vice-President, Dave Burton, said a letter was sent last week to first district Supervisor, Valerie Raymond, asking for county assistance.

The chamber asked for three things.

1. They asked the county to investigate the possibility of "calling for" an incorporation election.
2. Would the county assign a staff member to prepare the proper paper work connected to the proposed incorporation?
3. Would the county provide money to hire an outside consultant to delve into the pros and cons of setting up an incorporated city?

Will Dublin incorporate? Chamber of Commerce has asked the Alameda County Board of Supervisors for help.

How VCSD votes get counted

The spokesman explained Contra Costa County had no Registrar of Voters per se but the county clerk has the same duties as a registrar and acts in the same capacity.

The deadline for voting in both counties is 8 p.m. Sept. 6. Late arriving ballots postmarked by 8 p.m. don't count, according to spokesmen in both offices.

"The ballots have to be in our office," they stated. Alameda County ballots will go to Contra Costa County to be counted on Sept. 6, according to Johanna Tracy, lead clerk in the Alameda County Registrar of Voters office.

After the ballots are processed, they will be fed through a cubic voter counter after 8 p.m. on Sept. 6. This counter "reads" the specially treated paper dots voters have placed by their choices. The cubic vote counter can "read" an average of 600 ballots an hour, according to Contra Costa County's keypunch department head.

"A fast keypunch operator can feed 1000 an hour through the cubic vote counter," said the department head. "The ballot information will be printed on paper tape. We will be using six cubic vote counters and total all six tapes after all the ballots are fed through."

As soon as ballots are received in both county offices, voter signatures on the outside of the sealed envelopes are validated. Signatures are checked against the registered voter's affidavit which is on file, the Contra Costa County spokesman explained. Then the voter is given credit for voting.

Spokesmen from both counties said envelopes were stored unopened in "day-received" bundles after signatures were validated. The ballots are still sealed inside, they said.

To insure privacy Sept. 6 when envelopes have to be opened to retrieve ballots, the envelopes are placed so signatures are facing down. Then envelopes are slit, ballots removed but kept folded to insure voter privacy, envelopes rechecked to make certain they are empty, empty envelopes are thrown away, ballots are flattened out and fed through cubic vote counter. These procedures were explained by the Contra Costa County spokesman.

The same process is used for regular absentee ballots. Four people will be handling the envelopes and ballots Sept. 6.

Little radiation threat from Diablo Canyon quake, says PG&E

The chance of radiation leakage due to the severest earthquake conceivable at the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant is "extremely remote," PG&E said in a recent study of the site.

Even a 7.5 magnitude earthquake, which is larger than the company believes could occur on the site, would probably have no effect on the nearly completed nuclear power plant located 12 miles southwest of San Luis Obispo, PG&E claims.

"The risk to the health and safety of the public from radiation emissions caused by possible earthquake damage to the plant was found to be extremely remote," the company reported following a study requested by the Nuclear Regulatory Agency on possible earthquake hazards.

PG&E has been trying to obtain licensing for the plant since 1973. Thursday the utility giant asked the NRC for an interim license for the plant's first unit, which could be processed and approved before year's end.

The two-unit plant would produce 2.9 million kilowatts of electricity, enough to serve more than two million people. The second unit is 90 per cent complete.

Approval to begin generating electricity at the plant has been delayed pending studies on seismic safety. An offshore earthquake fault, named Hosgri, is three miles from the plant.

PG&E says an earthquake of magnitude of 7.5 on the Richter scale could be expected to occur no more than once every 50,000 years. They termed as "unreasonably severe" the chance for an earthquake of that strength.

The alleged low risk of radiation is due to four factors, PG&E stated:

- ★ The extreme rarity of earthquakes of sufficient magnitude to cause major damage to the plant;
- ★ The effectiveness of the plant safety systems in preventing major damage to key plant components;

★ The effectiveness of plant backup safety systems in reducing radiation releases, even if major damage occurs;

★ The rarity of combinations of atmospheric conditions and wind directions which would tend to result in significant exposures to the population.

Due to the relative "cleanliness" of nuclear power when compared with conventional energy sources such as oil or coal-burning plants, PG&E concluded that "inevitable health effects, however small, due to increased air pollution, would be associated with providing alternate sources of electric power... if Diablo Canyon were delayed for modifications."

The company estimates that it will have spent $1.25 billion dollars in construction and associated costs when both units of the plant are completed.

This drought could kill thousands

By JOHN VINOCUR

Associated Press Writer PARIS (AP) — Extraordinarily low rainfall in nations near the Sahara Desert in West Africa is beginning to create conditions reminiscent of the early days of the great Sahel drought that ended in 1974.

Western experts met Friday in Dakar, Senegal, to assess the regional situation.

Arthur Fell, deputy director of the Dakar mission of the U.S. Agency for International Development, said the next two or three weeks will be critical in determining whether there will be enough rainfall to block a grim cycle of crop failures, food shortages and immense human misery.

"The levels are extraordinarily low at this point," he said in a telephone interview Thursday. "A week ago things seemed catastrophic to some people. There has been some rain in the intervening time, but it is not enough now to make a clear judgment."

The Sahel countries are Senegal, Mauritania, Mali, Upper Volta, Niger, Chad and Gambia, with a total population of about 26 million. All except Gambia are former French colonies.

The great six-year drought that parched the Sahel through 1974 took tens of thousands of lives, and hundreds of thousands of nomads and farmers were forced to flee to squalid camps where they subsisted on relief food flown in from abroad. The drought wiped out an estimated 25 per cent of the cattle herds in the six nations.

The threat of a drought in the Sahel follows reports that a famine of crisis proportions has hit villages in northern Ghana, also in West Africa, because of drought and "gross irregularities" among local officials in handling food sent in by the United States and West Europe. A recent report from the Oxford Committee for Famine Relief, a British charity, said growing numbers of villagers are dying of malnutrition in Ghana.

One of the Sahel countries, Gambia, has declared itself drought-stricken and has appealed to the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization — FAO — for emergency assistance.

The government reported that total average rainfall this year was just four inches, only a fifth of the 1976 total, and that 60 per cent of the early millet and maize crops has already been lost.

Yaya Ceasay, the Gambian agricultural minister, said that cattle plague had broken out in the wake of poor nourishment for the herds.

So far, $752,500 in emergency assistance from the FAO and 1,000 tons of rice from the United States have been sent to Gambia.

Fell described Mauritania as "being in a bad fix" and said Upper Volta was experiencing "bad conditions." Rainfall was also scarce in Mali and Chad. Niger's national agricultural service reported satisfactory conditions so far.

In Senegal, Adrien Senghor, the minister of rural development, said "the agricultural situation is alarming, but not hopeless. 'Senegal cannot say that is entirely a disaster zone,' Senghor said. 'We'll have to wait until mid-September to see. There could be a turnaround in some areas, like peanuts, the main export crop, if there is rain.'"

BART strike continues — riders wait for trains

Cops threatened with dismissal

Lesher News Bureau

OAKLAND — Strike-torn Bay Area Rapid Transit received a weekend respite after hauling about half as many riders as usual Friday.

About 75 per cent of the BART police force showed up for work after being told they may be fired if they didn't work.

It was an unusual case where a higher percentage of other BART workers stayed off the job than did members of the union staging the strike. BART said 95 per cent of other union employees weren't working.

In an effort to get the management and the BART Police Officers' Association talking, Richard Groulx, secretary of the Alameda County Central Labor Council offered to act as mediator in the strike.

The police union accepted the offer, but as of Friday morning BART had not.

Police spokesman Dennis Jandro acknowledged that Groulx might be considered a biased mediator by BART.

BART spokeswoman Diane Levine said a county of police department workers showed that only 20 of the 98 members remained off the job.

She said those 20 had been sent telegrams warning them they could be fired if they refused to work today.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge William Hayes Thursday ordered that union president Eugene Jennings appear before him Tuesday to explain why he shouldn't be found in contempt of court for calling the strike.

Judge Hayes had ruled that a police strike was illegal.

Jennings said he would stay off the job and believes that Judge Hayes' decision was wrong.

Friday morning, trains carried more nearly double the riders than they did yesterday.

Levine reported that 29,437 people rode BART which was running 18 trains, just more than 50 per cent of normal. Usually BART carries 35,000 people on Fridays.

Thursday morning 15,800 people rode BART. Police president Jennings Thursday said he feels "let down" by the lack of support for the strike by his union members.

"In a way I do feel let down. We've been acting on behalf of the union and put ourselves up front thinking a lot of people were behind the movement," Jennings remarked.

The police aren't striking for higher wages.

The main issue is whether police have the right to cross picket lines established by other employee unions that may strike.

But, Jennings said, the strike has snowballed into a fight for the right of public employees unions to strike because of BART's successful effort to get a preliminary injunction making the strike illegal.

The police intend to appeal that decision, but as of this Friday morning no appeal had been filed.

Ghost town gone miners build city

DENALI, Alaska (AP) — Two disgruntled miners bulldozed this gold rush ghost town into rubble in the mistaken belief that federal officials planned to make it a tourist attraction.

Doug and Dave Clark have held mining claims here for more than three years. Earlier this summer they thought they had stumbled over a plot to turn the place into a historic landmark, a designation they believed would prevent them from prospecting and mining.

Bureau of Land Management officials in Anchorage said they have no such plans. But they do have plans to investigate whether the Clark brothers violated any laws in razing a hotel, a two-story bunkhouse, a general store, buildings for processing gold, a post office and several cabins.

Vance back from China: Carter impressed

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, returning from his mission to China, received a welcome home Saturday from President Carter, who called the trip "a major step forward toward our ultimate goal of normalizing relations" with the Communist nation.

In brief remarks at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland, Carter said that while the trip was "limited and exploratory in nature," it was "a very important mission to one of the most important nations on earth."

Vance noted that the trip represented the first high-level contact between the Carter administration and the Chinese government, which itself has undergone transition in recent months.

While an exploratory trip, it was nonetheless "very important that we have this exchange of views for the first time," he said.

With his latest trip, Vance, who once saw himself mostly as a stay-at-home secretary of state, now has amassed the kind of overseas mileage that made his predecessor Henry Kissinger world-famous.

Brown's bargain for state business

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. told 800 California business leaders Friday he is giving business "a good bargain" in the $4.5-billion tax relief bill pending before the legislature.

The Democratic governor won enthusiastic applause from an otherwise quiet audience when he described portions of the tax bill which would eliminate the $450-million-a-year business inventory tax.

He said when former Gov. Ronald Reagan reduced the business inventory tax by 50 per cent, the cost was a 3 per cent increase in the bank and corporation tax rate.

The current bill will eliminate the other 50 per cent of the business inventory tax with only a 1 per cent hike in the bank and corporation tax rate, Brown said.

"I frankly think I drove a good bargain for you,"

Brown said of the tax relief compromise he and legislative leaders made Thursday.

The bill, however, includes a boost in capital gains taxes and some other provisions unpopular with business interests.

In a rambling 45-minute speech at the Sacramento Host Breakfast, sponsored by state and local chambers of commerce, Brown also said the state's economic future is "rosy and bright."

"This is one of the most attractive places in the world to place your investment," Brown told the businessmen.

"The state of California is in extremely healthy shape ... the prospects for the future are healthy and bright," Brown said.

Responding to criticism of "era of limits" slogans, Brown said he favors growth.

"We all need growth. Growth is a part of life. But it has to be a benign growth. Since the Gold Rush, we've been in a growth cycle," he said.

The Democratic governor was criticized indirectly for increased state spending in a welcoming speech by Walter M. Baird of San Francisco, president of the California Chamber of Commerce.

Brown replied that increases in government spending are inevitable, whether liberals or conservatives are in charge of state government.

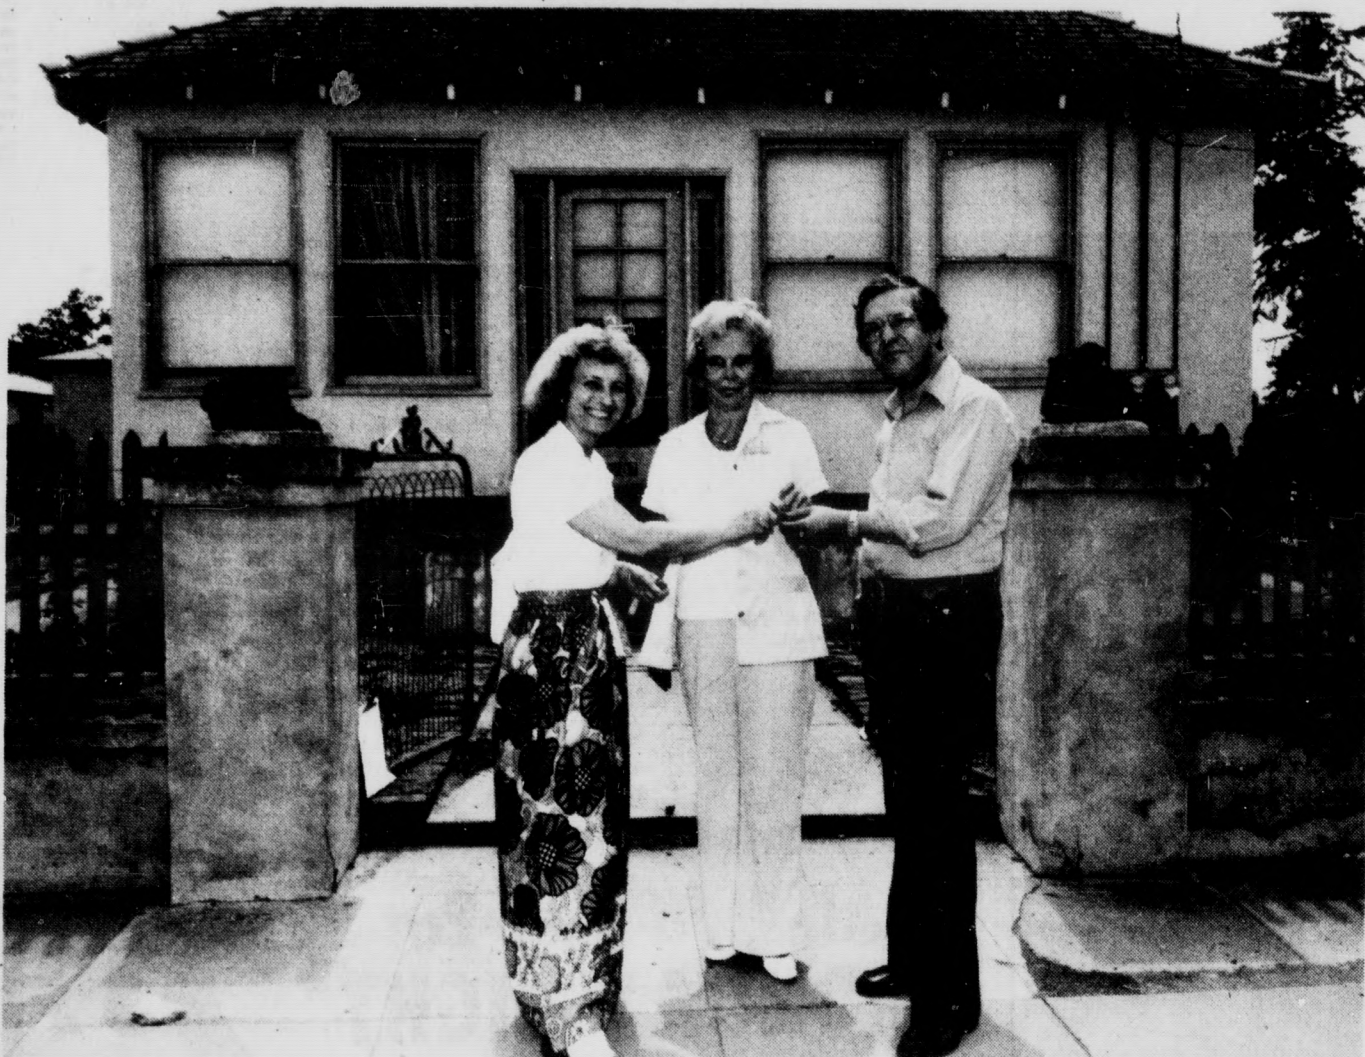

"I enjoy cutting things out of the budget almost more than I enjoy putting them in," Brown said.

But because of the increased mobility in society, Brown said, government will continue to assume more responsibilities previously shouldered by the family, neighborhood and church, and that will increase government spending.

"The government is, in many cases, the family of last resort," Brown said, and that is costing more money.

More and more costs "are shifting over to the public sector, under liberal presidents, under conservative presidents, under liberal governors under, conservative governors."

They're riding the rails

NEW GLARUS, Wis. (AP) — There's a different kind of traveler on the rights of way where steam locomotives once chugged through the rolling green countryside of southern Wisconsin.

Cyclists, young and not so young, are riding the 25-mile Sugar River Trail that connects the little towns of New Glarus, Monticello, Albany and Brodhead.

The trail, developed and maintained by the state's Department of Natural Resources over the abandoned roadbed of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, is one of four in Wisconsin. The state considers itself a leader in giving bicyclists safe, scenic and level places to ride.

Trails in the state using old railroad lines total 91 miles.

"There are thousands of miles of rights of way up for abandonment nationwide and we get lots of requests for information from other states about our program," said Dave Weizenicker, deputy director of the DNR's Bureau of Parks and Recreation. "We've been a stimulator."

Weizenicker says after the state buys the abandoned lines, the tracks and ties are torn up and replaced with fine-grained gravel, five to six inches deep.

Between Elroy and Sparta in western Wisconsin there is the 32-mile line which the Northwestern Railway sold the state in 1965 for $12,000.

Blooming good year for plum crop despite drought

By ROBERT McEWEN
Associated Press Writer
FRESNO AP — Despite the drought, California's plum harvest is rolling along at a rate that will get Jack Horner out of his corner in no time.

The state's 1,700 plum growers anticipate a record bounty of more than 10 million boxes compared to an average of nine million over the last five years and about eight million last year.

"Strangely enough, the drought hasn't hurt us so far," said Virgil Rasmussen, chairman of the state Plum Commodity Committee. "It seems to be a quirk of nature that when a fruit tree is struggling, like in a dry year, it turns out a good bloom."

He explained that a medium bloom of fruit buds produces a maximum yield.

"Some years the bloom can be aborted for any number of reasons, but this year, we've had a great one."

Another factor leading to the bumper harvest is that now plantings over the past five to seven years have reached fruition in 1977. The state's plum production is centered primarily in Fresno and Tulare counties with some growers in Kern and Placer.

"What we're seeing is the effect of about four economically successful years in the plum business," Rasmussen said. "Growers have planted extra." Despite the size of the crop, however, grower profits may drop from last year, he added.

"Our business is one of supply and demand, and when the supply becomes burdensome, the price drops. Lately, the market price has failed to return the cost of production, packing and shipping."

The price of plums at shipping point is $4 a box for smaller sizes and $4.50 for regular sizes. The average box contains about 29 pounds.

Florist didn't wilt

Livermore in the late 1940's was a hard place to open a florist shop. Still, Bob and Marie Rumberger opened Knott's Flowers in 1947 and Bob, like many longtime Valley residents, says the summers were hotter then.

"You wouldn't believe the heat in Livermore then. Ask any oldtimer, it was worse 30 years ago," he says.

"It would be 110 or 112 degrees for days. The flowers would wilt in the store and you'd have to take off and go fishing," he adds.

Business profile

Fishing has always been one of Bob's favorite pastimes. He hooked Marie on one trip to Lake County while on leave from the Navy submarine service. They married in 1944.

The Rumbergers entered the florist business after World War II but Marie was no stranger to the business having worked in her family's flower shops in Denver and later Hayward. They took Marie's family name, Knott, for advertising convenience with her father's store in Hayward and her brother's in Manteca.

Their address today, 2074 Second Street, is their third location though in the same neighborhood as their first shop on First Street and second on S. K Street. Their son Bob is a partner now and Bob and Marie have more time for fishing and their two grandchildren.

Bob is also a member of the Odd Fellows, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Rotary and Las Positas Men's Club.

Bad beef spawns disease in 4 states

By MARK O'BRIEN
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Improperly prepared beef sold in supermarkets and delicatessens has spawned outbreaks of salmonellosis in four Northeast states, the national Center for Disease Control said Saturday.

The CDC said the outbreaks reflected a recurrent problem involving beef not cooked at high enough temperatures.

Salmonellosis, which causes diarrhea, cramps, chills and fever, has been reported in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut, the CDC said. The reports started this year in late June with outbreaks in upstate New York.

The CDC said a joint study with the four states' health departments turned up 140 salmonellosis cases, none of them fatal. Of 63 victims interviewed, 32 ate precooked roast beef produced by at least six companies, the joint report said.

"It is my understanding that the producers are withdrawing the beef from the market," CDC spokesman Stafford Smith said Saturday.

In the late June outbreaks, the CDC said, "the precooked roasts of beef were from the same source, a meat-processing company in Philadelphia."

Another CDC official, Don Berreth, said the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Philadelphia company, Holiday Provisions Co., have recalled beef distributed before July 28.

Names of other companies which Smith said were recalling beef were not immediately available.

Similar outbreaks of salmonellosis were reported to the CDC in scattered areas of several East Coast states in 1975 and 1976.

Smith said the beef was cooked at less than 130 degrees Fahrenheit — hot enough to cook the meat but not hot enough to kill the salmonella bacteria.

"This recurrent problem with precooked roasts of beef from different producers emphasizes that this is a continuing problem with significant public health implications," the CDC said. "Precooked roasts of beef may continue to pose a risk as long as they are cooked to internal temperatures of less than 130 degrees."

Berreth added that many victims did not report the illness to authorities.

"In many cases it's not serious enough that they would call a doctor," he said. "Usually it's only serious for the very young or the very old."

Yukon Indians call on Carter

WHITEHORSE, Canada (AP) — Yukon Indians, saying Canada has "sold them out," have appealed to President Carter to reject construction of an American natural gas pipeline through the Yukon on grounds it would result in "cultural genocide."

"We are appealing to him on the human rights issue. If they go ahead with a pipeline now through the Yukon it will get in the way of our land claims and destroy our culture," said Daniel Johnson, chairman of the Council for Yukon Indians.

Dole says farm export program 'inadequate'

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is being urged to seek more money to finance an export credit program aimed at boosting sales of farm commodities overseas despite figures by the Agriculture Department which show that not all of the credit already available is being used.

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., has told Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland that the export credit program is "grossly inadequate" and urged him to ask Congress for a 100 per cent increase in 1977-78 fiscal year funds, from $750 million currently appropriated to $1.5 billion.

"In view of the fact that the competition will likely be keener next fiscal year (which begins Oct. 1) for a broader range of commodities which are now beginning to experience slack demand and falling prices, it seems to me that at least $1.5 billion is needed in CCC credits to stimulate farm exports," Dole said in a letter to Bergland this week.

The current authorization is $1 billion for the 1976-77 fiscal year. The program is operated by USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) and involves setting up lines of credit to qualified foreign countries.

Unlike aid programs such as Food for Peace, the CCC Export Credit Program involves loans at commercial bank interest rates that must be repaid over periods ranging from six months to three years. A country's credit record is taken into account before the loans are made.

According to USDA, about $946 million of the $1 billion available for loans this fiscal year has been committed to about two dozen countries in the individual lines of credit established for each.

A spokesman said Friday that as of Aug. 19, only $639.4 million of the lines of credit available this fiscal year had been actually used to buy U.S. farm commodities.

Thus, with less than six weeks remaining in this fiscal year, less than two-thirds of the $1 billion available for the export credit program had been used by foreign countries.

One official said that more of the available credit committed over $300 million probably will be used this fiscal year but that "there's no way that it can all be used" by Sept. 30. The CCC Export Credit Program was started in the 1950s to help bridge a gap between cash sales of U.S. farm products overseas and concessional shipments made under Food for Peace, which are for 20 years to 40 years at low interest rates, to truly needy countries.

Wheat, corn, rice, cotton, tobacco, soybean oil, edible dry bean and other commodities currently are eligible for export financing.

As of Aug. 1, as an example, millions of dollars were still available to a number of countries to buy U.S. wheat and flour, including: Cyprus, $1 million; the Philippines, $17 million; Portugal, $11.7 million; Honduras, $250,000; Peru, $1.3 million; Syria, $11.8 million; and Jamaica, $5 million.

Bootlegging in the '70s has become marijuana growing in the '70s — a particularly profitable proposition as the townspeople in Garberville, a small town in Northern California, have discovered. And as Humboldt County Sheriff Gene Cox, pictured here with an eight-foot bundle of the weed, and his deputies who confiscated the illegal stuff late last week, know — growing pot is illegal. But they've also discovered, said Cox, "you've got to catch them while they are hoeing it or weeding it. And they're never around when we show up."

Klamath rages on

Crews were digging in fire lines Saturday at the 52,900-acre fire in the Klamath National Forest as the lightning-sparked fire began to cool down.

Officials expected to have the 16-day-old fire under control Tuesday, according to Marilyn Cothman, U.S. Forest Service.

Firemen had built 89 miles of lines and had 23 miles left.

"We won't consider it contained until we have lines around the whole thing," she said.

Some 1,300 firemen were fighting the blaze Saturday. At its peak, the fire was battled by 5,600 firefighters.

Building Over Delta Canceled

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state has abandoned plans to build two of three rock barriers planned in the Sacramento-San Joaquin River Delta, the Department of Water Resources announced Saturday.

Planning is continuing for construction this fall of the barrier across Dutch Slough. But the barriers across Fisherman's Cut and False River are delayed until spring, if ever, the department said.

The Dutch Slough barrier will save 2,000 to 4,000 acre-feet per month of fresh water, the department said.

Military personnel reports

PLEASANTON — Coast Guard Yeoman Third Class Peter E. Bureau, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Bureau of Isle Royal Court, recently completed a training cruise to Europe.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the Coast Guard cutter Gallatin, homeported at Governors Island, New York City, N.Y.

The purpose of the cruise was to provide training for Coast Guard Academy cadets on the various aspects of shipboard life. He helped train the future officers on shiphandling, radar use and surface contact plotting, plus navigation, piloting and the operation of propulsion plants.

During the cruise, he had the opportunity to visit Copenhagen and London, Rouen, France; Malaga, Spain; and Hamburg, Germany; in addition to transiting the Strait of Gibraltar.

His cutter is 350 feet long, displaces 3,050 tons and carries a crew of 155 officer and enlisted men. She is outfitted with guns and torpedo tubes and can accommodate a search and rescue helicopter.

He joined the Coast Guard in September, 1975.

LIVERMORE — Coast Guard Subistence Specialist Third Class John P. Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coleman of Hampton Road, has departed for an Alaskan fisheries patrol in the North Pacific Ocean.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the Coast Guard cutter Mellon, homeported in Honolulu.

During the three-month patrol, he and his shipmates will conduct surveillance operations with Coast Guard aircraft to enforce international treaties and U.S. laws, including the 200-mile fisheries conservation zone. Additionally, his ship will conduct oceanographic and meteorological projects and will be on call for search and rescue missions.

His ship is a 378-foot long high-endurance cutter and carries a crew of 155 officers and enlisted men. She is outfitted with guns, torpedo tubes and can accommodate a search and rescue helicopter.

He joined the Coast Guard in January, 1974.

DUBLIN — Marine Private First Class David Z. Bailey, son of Mike Bailey of Vineyard Avenue, has completed the infantry combat training course at the Infantry Training School, Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton.

During the six-week course, he received classroom instruction and participated in field exercises involving infantry tactics; the construction and camouflage of fighting positions; and the use of mines, demolitions and intra-company communications equipment.

His specialized training centered on the operation, employment and maintenance of antitank assault weapons.

A 1975 graduate of Dublin High School, he joined the Marine Corps in March, 1977.

LIVERMORE — Mark S. Tarte, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Tarte of Buena Vista Avenue, has been appointed to noncommissioned officer status in the U.S. Air Force.

The newly-elected sergeant completed required training in management, leadership, human relations and NCO responsibilities, before being considered for this new rank.

Sgt. Tarte is a security specialist at Whiteman AFB, Mo.

The sergeant is a 1973 graduate of Livermore High School.

DUBLIN — Coast Guard Quartermaster Third Class Neil C. Holmdahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Holmdahl of Beverly Lane, has been promoted to his present rank while serving aboard the Coast Guard cutter Sweet Gum, homeported in Mayport, Fla.

A 1976 graduate of Dublin High School, he joined the Coast Guard in July, 1976.

Kids and school food

Student involvement, menu variety and innovative service mean more enthusiasm for school lunches, according to the California School Food Service Association (CSFSA).

There is a marked increase in lunches served and decrease in plate waste when food service personnel listen to students' suggestions, according to an article in a recent issue of the School Foodservice Journal.

Most students' gripes are legitimate and their ideas reasonable. Recently when a group of Northern California students were interviewed about their school lunch program their complaints ranged from short straws getting lost in milk cartons to requests for tomatoes in sandwiches and the availability of fresh, unsliced fruits.

Encouraging nutritious lunches selected from the four basic food groups — milk, meats, fruits and vegetables and bread and cereals may require ingenuity on the part of food service personnel.

Several new approaches to school lunch programs are being used in California including buffet style meals where students serve themselves from a counter with adult supervisors encouraging the selection of well balanced meals.

Build-your-own sandwich lines have proved successful in a number of schools. Students can choose from four or five different breads and any three-ounce combination of sandwich fillings. Condiments and other ingredients are available and milk, vegetables and fruits are provided.

French fries served in bags and hot sandwiches wrapped in foil resembling those in fast food outlets have proved appealing to students in one California school district.

Another school set up its cafeteria like a short order restaurant. Students call orders to the kitchen, serve and cashier. In addition to more student interest in the lunch program the restaurant system provided a chance to learn job skills.

Some school districts have used taste panels and tasting parties as a means of determining which foods tempt students, according to CSFSA. When students are given the opportunity to sample unusual foods or new recipes before they appear on the menu plate waste is avoided and an interest in new foods is encouraged.

School exam dates set

The first test dates for the two major college entrance examination programs, the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and American College Testing (ACT), have been announced and high school seniors are encouraged to apply early.

The first test date for the SAT is Oct. 15 and the application deadline is Sept. 23.

This test is part of the College Entrance Examination Board's test program.

Oct. 8 is the first test date for the ACT program and the application deadline is Sept. 12.

Students are reminded the application deadlines are final for those tests. Applications are available in the counseling offices of all Valley high schools.

U.S. cagers top Soviets

SOFIA, Bulgaria — The U.S. basketball team defeated the Soviet Union 87-68 to win the gold medal in the World University Games Saturday night, and American swimmers won four of the last five swimming events on the last day of competition.

The Soviet Union ended the games at the top of the medals list with 30 golds, 33 silvers and 28 bronzes, while the United States was second with 19-11-13. Hungary was third with 14-10-2.

The U.S. basketball squad scored its eighth victory in eight games as Sid Moncrief of Arkansas led the scoring with 16 points. Freeman Williams of Portland State and Larry Byrd of Indiana State scored 14 each and Calvin Natt of North-east Louisiana scored 10.

With Steve Schalles of South Dakota State University winning the 163-pound class in freestyle wrestling, the United States finished the 10-day students' sports festival in grand style. The U.S. women's basketball team won a silver medal. The strong Soviet squad beat the Americans 107-90 in the final.

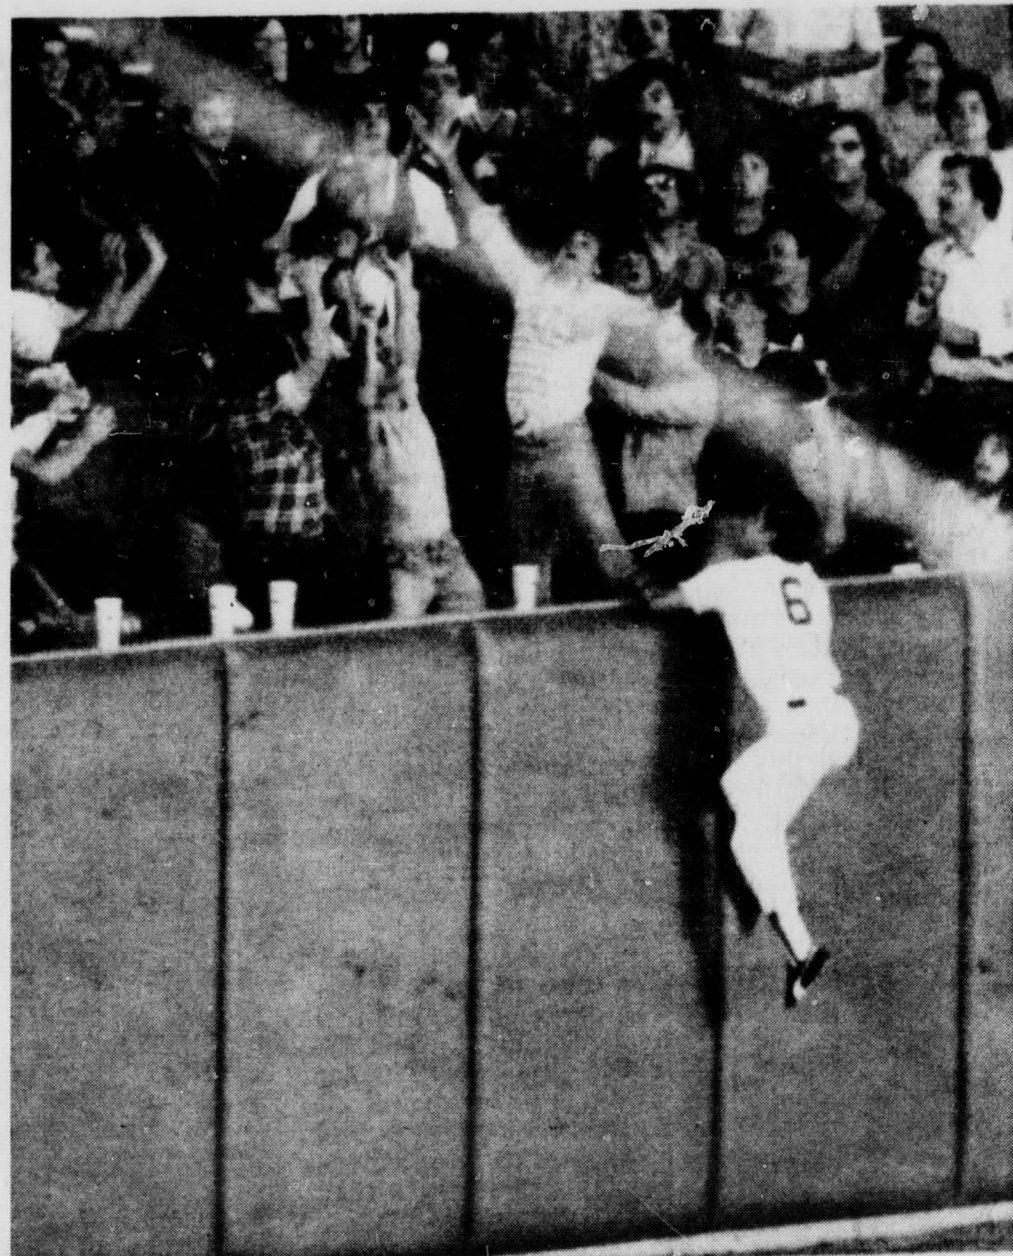

The top performers in the U.S. swimming triumph were John Ebuna and Sue Hinderaker, who each won two gold medals on the final night.

Ebuna of the University of Tennessee won the men's 100-meter freestyle in 52.05 seconds and swam third in the quartet that edged the Russians in the men's 800-meter freestyle relay.

Miss Hinderaker of the University of California won her golds in two consecutive races. She held on to win the women's 100-meter butterfly event in 1:03.63, despite a late challenge by West Germany's Gudrun Backmann, and then anchored the U.S. women's 400-meter medley relay team to victory with a powerful last leg.

Saban's wife found dead

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — Lorraine Saban, wife of former Buffalo Bills coach and now University of Miami Coach Lou Saban, committed suicide late Friday night by hanging herself, police said.

Mrs. Saban, 55, was found by a neighbor hanging in the basement of her suburban Buffalo home.

Police said Mrs. Saban's son, who lives in Cleveland, had called the neighbor to check on his mother, after failing for several hours to reach her by telephone.

Saban flew here Saturday from Miami, where he was preparing to start the 1977-78 season at the helm of the University of Miami.

Police said Mrs. Saban had been packing household goods in preparation for joining her husband in Florida before she committed suicide. They said a note was left but they refused to reveal its contents. Mrs. Saban was transportation chairperson of the Erie County League of Women Voters for eight years. Her advice on transit issues was sought by various government officials. Police said she had minor health problems recently, but they would not elaborate. The Saban family recently bought a house near the University of Miami where Saban was in his first season as head coach. The Sabans also have three daughters. Saban, who recently underwent open heart surgery and recuperated at his Buffalo home, came to Miami in December from the National Football League team in Buffalo.

Saban also coached the Denver Broncos from 1967 to 1971.

U.S. Open tennis Borg top-seeded

NEW YORK — The men have scheduled a battle royal for dominance in their game and Chris Evert, the always serene and steady empress of tennis, might totter a bit on her throne. Virginia Wade, the Wimbledon queen, will meet controversial Renee Richards. The U.S. Open tennis championships, set at the venerable West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, begin Wednesday.

Bjorn Borg, the Wimbledon king of the past two years, is top-seeded even though he lost here to Jimmy Connors last year. Borg snatched the No. 1 spot in men's tennis ranks last week—wrestling it from Connors, who'd held it for 3½ years.

They could meet in the finals at the Open two weeks hence, if the play follows the seedings.

Miss Evert, the 22-year-old from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., bids for her third consecutive U.S. Open title. She seemed indomitable after her triumph last year over Yvonne Goolagong, but has not had such a remarkable year after all.

At Wimbledon's semifinals she lost 2-6, 6-4, 1-6 to Ms. Wade, the Briton over whom Britain had nearly despaired after 16 Wimbledon tries. Miss Evert, as well as most of the other top women, have been engaged in World Team Tennis since then, and major tournaments have gone to little-known players.

The razzle-dazzle during the first round at the Open undoubtedly will fall on Ms. Wade, seeded third, when she meets Dr. Richards, the 43-year-old transsexual admitted to the tournament by court order.

Dr. Richards had been banned from all major tournaments this year and hasn't amassed much of a record. She took the U.S. Tennis Association and Women's Tennis Association to court after being required to take chromosome tests. A judge said the test was unfair and that she should be permitted to play at the Open. The USTA complied without requiring her to enter qualifying rounds.

Miss Evert will meet Sharon Walsh of Mill Valley, Calif., and second-seeded Martina Navratilova, the expatriate Czech, will play Mary Hamm of San Antonio, Tex., in the opening round.

Billie Jean King, still on the rebound from knee surgery last year, is seeded seventh and has a bye in the first round. If all goes according to the seedings, Miss Evert and Ms. King would meet in the quarter-finals.

Miss Goolagong, the runner-up the last four years at the Open, returned to tennis two weeks ago after a year-long absence, during which she gave birth to her first child. The Australian, living at Hilton Head, S.C., said she would not play here, however, because motherly duty called.

Borg falls into the same quarter of the draw with eighth-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis of Kings Point, N.Y., who gave him a mighty battle in the Wimbledon semifinals. If both progress according to seedings, Borg would have to meet fourth-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina before gaining the final.

Connors, with a still-healing sprained thumb, is in the same quarter with fifth seed Manuel Orantes of Spain, who upset him here in a dramatic final in 1975. His quarter also includes ninth-seeded Eddie Dibbs and hard-hitting Roscoe Tanner, No. 11.

Connors must get past No. 3 seed Brian Gottfried and seventh-seeded Ilie Nastase to make it to the finals.

Meanwhile, Arthur Ashe, former U.S. Open and Wimbledon champion, said Saturday he has withdrawn from the Open.

He had an operation on his heel which had bothered him for years.

American tankers still ahead

BERLIN — Propelled by two world records by the men and a surprising surge by the women, the U.S. swimming team led East Germany by 12 points Saturday after the first day of their two-day head-to-head battle.

Co-captain Joe Bottom took away Mark Spitz' last world record by posting a time of 54.18 seconds in the 100-meter butterfly and Brian Goodell lowered his world mark in the 400-meter freestyle. Spitz' time of 54.27 dated to the 1972 Munich Olympics, when he won seven gold medals — all in world record times.

Spitz watched the 22-year-old Bottom, a University of Southern California swimmer, better his record in the East Berlin meet and said he had no regrets. "They keep getting faster and this one stood a long time," said Spitz, America's greatest swimmer ever.

Swimming records don't normally last a year and this one had lasted five years. Coach Frank Keefe of Philadelphia said Goodell's lowering his world record in the 400-meter freestyle from 3:51.93 to 3:51.56 was more of a surprise. "Brian swam better than when he came in here but we expected Bottom to bust loose," he said. "But it's our women who've been fantastic. We're up by 12 points and in good shape for tomorrow."

The East German women, expected to dominate freestyle, stunned the packed crowd of some 9,000.

Tracy, 14, of Nashville, Tenn. and Nancy Hogshead, 15, of Jacksonville, Fla. easily won the race in 2:12.98.

This is the third U.S.-East German meet. The Americans won in Leipzig in 1971 with Spitz and again in 1974 at Concord, Calif. — By Associated Press

Fillol upsets Gottfried

BROOKLINE, Mass. — Sixteenth-seeded Jaime Fillol of Chile held service only once in the second set Saturday but eliminated No. 2 Brian Gottfried in the $125,000 U.S. Pro Tennis Championships, 7-5, 6-3.

Gottfried became the sixth ranked player in the clay court tournament at Longwood Cricket Club to be eliminated.

Fillol's victory moved him into Sunday's quarter-finals against fellow Chilean Patricio Cornejo, who upset sixth-seeded Roscoe Tanner 5-7, 6-1, 6-4 Friday.

Fifth-seeded Dick Stockton narrowly escaped disaster Saturday, beating unseeded Billy Martin 7-6, 3-6, 6-4.

In another afternoon match, Poland's Wojtek Fibak, the tournament's eighth seed, moved into the quarter-finals by beating Francois Jauffret of France 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

Miller's putt wins Walker Cup

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. — Lindy Miller's 50-foot putt led to a 1-up victory over Steve Martin of Great Britain Saturday, allowing the United States to capture its third consecutive Walker Cup, 16-8, over the British.

Miller, last year's Big Eight Conference champion from Fort Worth, Tex., went into the final hole of the match even with his opponent. The American, who enters his senior year at Oklahoma State next month, used a No. 6 iron for a 160-foot second shot, but he landed 50 feet from the cup.

Calmly he sank the putt for the birdie on the par-four, 426-yard hole at the Shinnecock Hills Country Club.

Gary Hallberg, a 19-year old sophomore at Wake Forest University and the youngest player in the tourney, applied the clincher with a 4-and-3 win over Peter McEvoy, the British Amateur champion. The host squad, captained by Lewis Oehmig of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., entered Saturday's action with a 9-3 lead.

Next target: Pastorini

Tommy Hart (53) and Cleveland Elam (72) chase Los Angeles Ram quarterback Pat Haden in last week's sack-filled 49er victory over the Rams. San Francisco's feared front four gets a chance to humble former Santa Clara signal-caller Dan Pastorini in tomorrow game with the Houston Oilers at the Astrodome. San Francisco is 1-2 during pre-season play while Houston, of course, had little success against the Bay Area's other team, the Oakland Raiders, falling 40-0 on opening night. (Times photo).

Home builder says high prices are housing dilemma factor

Real Estate

By BOB NOREK
Business Editor

WALNUT CREEK — Ted and Billie B. want the good life of Bay Area suburban living. Ted was recently transferred from a job back east where they enjoyed living in a comfortable single-family home.

But when Ted and Billie arrived here they found a housing crisis, especially in the single-family, detached category. Ted and Billie realized they could not afford their "dream home" in the suburbs.

According to veteran home builder Dick J. Randall, Ted and Billie (they're a fictional composite) are members of the consumer group known as World War II babies who are realizing the single-family, detached housing market is closed to them.

Randall, executive vice president of the William Lyon Company, Friday morning told members of the Contra Costa Board of Realtors that many of the nation's young people are being "priced out of the housing market."

Randall, a long-time Associated Building Industry (ABI) executive, said pricing is the number one factor in the housing crisis in California today.

The home builder told his breakfast audience the young home buyer of today was reared in the suburban single-family atmosphere and now they want the same living style for their families.

Unfortunately, Randall said many of these young home buyers cannot afford the homes they were reared in because of the high price of the single-family market.

Randall said the current governmental red tape and hearings process is a factor in the price dilemma. He reported that some subdivisions take up to four years to be planned and built.

The average, he told realtors, is approximately two years while labor, materials and land costs continue to skyrocket.

"Land availability in the Bay Area is a very serious problem," Randall said. The guest speaker commented buildable parcels are quickly disappearing from the region.

Randall said both the state and federal governments seek to develop the central core of our cities for housing. However, the builder added, "How many of our young consumers want to live in the central city?"

Randall briefly discussed the new sewer connection stoppage technique employed by municipalities and the "Green Panther" groups as housing moratoriums.

"They say they are protecting the quality of life. What about the quality of life for our young people. What are they supposed to live in? A tent?"

Randall urged more political action by both home builders and realtors. "We need to tell our story with more emphasis before our legislative representatives."

In a forecast for future housing trends, Randall said he sees a "revision of the townhouse concept." More and more home buyers will select the townhouse because it is less expensive and builders (see story on Page 39) are upgrading townhouse design. However, Randall said the "American dream is still the single-family, detached home in the suburbs."

Commenting on today's market, Randall said, "Reality has returned to the housing market." But he added there are still "sick" elements in the market.

Randall said that in today's market both realtors and new subdivision salespersons are finding that "people are not waiting for them to open the office and they are going to have to work again."

"We still have lotteries and people still stand in line for hours or even days to buy a home."

The San Ramon Valley is boom town for builders and home buyers. The valley has several major housing projects under construction to meet the ever-increasing demand for homes. However, according to the latest Contra Costa Board of Realtors statistics, the valley home price averages out to be $97,731. Dick Randall, a home builder and ABI executive, this week told Board of Realtors members that young people were being priced out of the opportunity to purchase a home.

Lending bill for poor killed in Assembly

SACRAMENTO — A bill aimed at curbing redlining, the practice of denying housing loans to poor neighborhoods, was defeated in an Assembly committee Tuesday.

Allies of savings and loan institutions, who thought the bill went too far, and some minority legislators, who didn't think it went far enough, combined to block the bill's passage in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The vote was 7-6, four short of the needed majority. The author, Sen. Nate Holden, D-Culver City, said he would work with the Brown administration, which supports the bill, to try to win passage at a later hearing.

In an interview, Holden, who is black, criticized several other minority legislators, including Assemblyman Julian Dixon and Assemblywoman Teresa Hughes, both Los Angeles democrats, for voting against the bill after failing to get an amendment to strengthen it.

"They played right into the hands of the savings and loans," Holden said. "This bill was the only game in town."

The bill, SB 7, would make it illegal for a lender to deny a loan strictly because of an applicant's neighborhood, regardless of credit standing. Violators could be fined and ordered to make the loan.

Current Brown administration regulations also outlaw the practice, but apply only to state-chartered savings and loans. The bill would apply to all lending institutions.

Homeowner insurance: what's available

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES AP — As a number of Californians have been learning lately, homeowner's insurance comes in a variety of forms — not all of which provide complete coverage. Here are the four main types of homeowner's insurance and what they cover:

— Basic form. This is the least expensive type of coverage. Under it, your home and personal possessions are protected against damage from 11 causes: fire and lightning, explosion, riots, hail and wind-storm, damage from smoke, vehicles and aircraft, theft, malicious mischief and vandalism, breaking glass which is part of the building and loss of property removed from the premises because of fire or other damage.

— Broad form. This covers all perils in the basic form, plus damage from falling objects, weight of ice, sleet and snow, collapse of buildings, accidental damage to or resulting from water and steam systems, certain types of damage from electrical equipment including appliances and freezing of plumbing, heating and air conditioning systems.

— Comprehensive form. Also known as all-risk homeowner's insurance, this covers all the perils in the Basic and Broad form and almost all other accidents. Exceptions are earthquakes, landslides, floods, surface water, waves and tides, sewer backups, seepage, wars and nuclear radiation. You can purchase against some of the excluded perils such as floods and earthquakes separately at extra cost.

— Special form. This provides Comprehensive coverage on your home and Broad form coverage on your personal property.

Your homeowner's policy covers your home and all other buildings on your property unless they are rented or used for commercial purposes. It also covers personal property, even if the loss occurs away from home, and will pay for your living expenses if the home cannot be occupied because of damage.

Personal liability insurance, which many people buy along with their homeowner's policy, protects you and your family if you are responsible for another person's injuries. It may include pets. Personal liability insurance coverage includes three parts: medical payments to anyone injured on your property if you or a member of your family is responsible, payments if you accidentally damage someone else's property, and damages awarded if you are sued over an injury or damages. The amount of coverage varies with the policy.

The biggest single mistake homeowners make is under-insuring their property. Home values have skyrocketed in recent years, but many homeowners have not updated their policies. The amount of coverage you purchase is up to you, but experts recommend that you insure your home for at least 80 per cent of its replacement value. Rates for homeowner's insurance can vary widely, so shop around when buying or renewing your policy.

No. Cal. largest subdivision

Southampton: The song goes on

By BOB NOREK
Homes Editor

BENICIA—It may sound like "love's old, sweet song" but Southampton here is still the number one success story in Northern California home building.

This month the City of Benicia approved its master plan which will allow Southampton to continue to build for at least 10 years, according to Vic Freeman, the housing development's marketing director.

Southampton plans to continue build its traditional single-family homes. The developer will also construct townhouses, patio homes, apartments, a shopping center and with the city, a park.

Freeman says these building plans make Southampton the largest subdivision in Northern California. Presently 5,000 people live in Southampton. In the future, Freeman estimates that between 15,000 to 16,000 people will reside in the hillside community.

Southampton is now completing home construction in unit 20 and the builder is grading land in units 21 and 22 in preparation for home construction.

The home builder offers three- to six-bedroom homes with prices from $60,000 to $90,000. Freeman says Southampton operates on a near-sellout basis due to the popularity of its product.

Freeman says, "A majority of our business is referrals. People know our product and know that we will be here for a long time. The home buyer can see that we (Southampton) are not in the housing business for quick, getout profits."

Southampton is currently building 169 apartments which are FHA approved. The apartments range from one- to three-bedrooms. The apartment complex includes a clubhouse and pool. Freeman reports 16 are already rented.

The Grove will be, according to the marketing director, a complex of 108 townhouses clustered around a standing grove of trees.

Freeman says The Grove will offer many single-family home features and the price range will be approximately $50,000 to $60,000. Townhouses are planned in two- and three-bedroom designs with up to 1,400 square feet.

Also on Southampton's planning boards is a cluster of patio homes, which, Freeman comments, will be a mix of the townhouse/traditional single-family home living style. The 1,200- to 1,500-square-foot homes will feature two- and three-bedrooms and start in the mid $60,000 range.

"These homes will allow the homeowner the feeling of a traditional single-family residence without all the yard responsibilities," Freeman says.

Southampton is planning a full-service neighborhood shopping center which will feature a bank and supermarket besides smaller retailing businesses. The 120,000-square-foot center will have parking spaces for 400 cars and has a planned opening date of 1979.

The developer is planning to build a seven-acre city park with a windmill being its theme structure. Freeman says Southampton envisions the park as a family place with low-profile sports activity.

Freeman enthusiastically declares, "We have a top product, the lowest area tax rate and a superb location. With our new plans, Southampton will have something for everyone!"

Work continues at Southampton's Unit 20. The very popular housing development is located on the hills overlooking Benicia.

New loan plan

ATLANTA — Gallery of Homes, Inc., an international franchise organization, has announced plans for a new subsidiary to provide home mortgages for customers served by its network of over 600 independent brokers.

Gallery President Henry F. Carter said that Gallery of Homes Service Corporation, the new subsidiary, is a national mortgage company designed initially for the exclusive use of the organization's licensees.

Residential sales volume for member-licensees last year passed the five billion dollar mark, making the need to obtain home mortgage financing a major concern.

"This new concept in home financing is a first step for providing consumers with a complete 'one stop' convenience package to meet home buying and selling needs. For example," said Carter, "customers will be able to put their homes up for sale in one community and prequalify for a loan on another one anywhere in the United States through one of our 1,100 offices. This is the only national network of independent real estate brokers to provide its own mortgage financing to its consumers through its own national mortgage subsidiary," concluded Carter.

Pennamco, Inc., the fifth largest mortgage banking firm in the United States, has expressed an intent to enter into a contractual relationship with the Atlanta based franchisor to provide servicing and take-out financing for the new subsidiary. Located outside Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Pennamco is the mortgage banking affiliate of the First Pennsylvania Corporation.

Carter said that Gallery of Homes Service Corporation will provide a broad base for additional member services: offer licensees a competitive advantage while providing greater possibilities for financing during periods of tight money.

Following extensive marketing studies in test areas that include Houston and Dallas, Tex., Pittsburgh, Pa. and all of North Carolina, it is expected that training programs in policies and procedures will be affected among Gallery's 11,000 brokers and sales associates. It is anticipated that the mortgage company will be substantially expanded by February of next year.

Gallery of Homes, Inc. was founded in 1949 in Rochester, N.Y. and is the oldest residential real estate franchising organization in the United States. Stock in the private company is held by its employees and licensees.

Record sales

Mike McGriff set an all-time record with over $1.5 million in sales for Heritage Gallery of Homes in the past five months. He has been with Heritage for four and a half years.

Housing scarce — PG&E

Housing in Northern and Central California is extremely scarce, according to a survey released today by Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

Mid-year vacancies were recorded as 1.7 per cent, the lowest since 1970, reported Walter Blumst, PG&E coordinator of administrative services. Vacancies ranged from a low of 0.6 per cent in Los Gatos to a high of 4.9 per cent in Chico.

The annual statistical study examined availability of apartments and single-family homes in June based on idle PG&E meters throughout the company's 48-county service area.

Blumst said the housing shortage may be relieved by increased residential construction this year.

Builders are expected to complete 75,000 new single-family dwellings in 1977, the largest yearly volume since 1959. He estimated that new apartments ready for occupancy this year will total about 20,000, compared with an average of 15,500 during each of the past two years.

A developer's unique problem

Real Estate

ERIE, Pa. — Paupers of distant generations, forgotten in death as in life, came back to haunt a real estate developer and held up his plan to build an industrial park for two years.

But now they may come to a final resting place and how that came to be has all the elements of a good mystery: a nosy reporter, musty old court records and even a man with a divining rod.

It all started, the record say when more than 600 poor folk among them a "disagreeable old Irishman," an "old tramp" and "a perfect idiot" — were buried in the Erie County poorhouse graveyard between 1878 and 1918.

They had pretty much been forgotten more than 50 years after the overgrown graveyard had been sold as a vacant lot. But when developer Rober Ferrier decided to build an industrial park people began to question just what happened to Potters Field.

"Half the people we talked to thought the graves had been moved," said Ferrier. But no one seemed to know where they were.

That sent Erie Morning News reporter Jeff Pinski searching through records where he found a handwritten register of the burials, a highly personalized account of the deaths of poor people around the turn of the century.

James R. was described as a "kind old man," John H. was "out of his mind," when he died of starvation in 1880.

Some people were said to have died of "general wearing out." But John M., 94, died when he fell overboard while rowing with his girl friend. He had been drinking.

Following Pinski's story the county launched an investigation but all it had to go on were the old documents.

"There was no other record," Pinski said. "Nobody believed it." That's when the county called in Robert Schueler, the expert grave finder who went to work with his divining rod in the cemetery where grave markers had disappeared years ago.

Two rods in Schueler's hands snap up and cross when he passes over a buried object.

"To look at it you'd think it was a fake," said undertaker Merle Wood, who has been hired to move the bodies. "But I have to believe him because I don't have any other way to find the bodies."

A test dig proved when two bodies were found where he said they would be. Now the graveyard is lined with stakes and workmen began digging them up this week.

Wood estimated it would take a month to dig up the remains and rebury them at a site 20 miles away. Meanwhile Ferrier and his partners are two years behind in their plans.

"Needless to say we've all taken a ribbing," he said. "But we're still hoping to some day build an industrial park."

Some area bright spots

Friday and Saturday, Sept. 9 and 10 will be "Comedy Spotlight" times once again for the Willows Theatre as still another quartette of comics are on hand to entertain.

The evening of professional humorists will include Lou Felder, John Hostetter, Timothy Barron, and Mark McCollum. Cost for an evening of laughs is $3.

Building permits show big July for business

SAN FRANCISCO — Business activity in the 16-county Northern Coastal Region improved in July, reports Security Pacific Bank, reflecting a slight increase from the month-earlier pace.

Assistant Vice President Thomas R. Graves who heads the bank's Research Department in Northern California explained, "The bank's regional index of business activity was estimated at 189.5 (1967 equal 100) for July, 1977, slightly higher than June's figure and 6.6 percent above the July, 1976, level."

Graves based his report on data compiled for the latest edition of Security Pacific Bank's publication, Monthly Summary of Business Conditions in Northern Coastal California.

The components of Security Pacific Bank's Regional Business Index which registered the largest increases were those measuring building permit valuations, real estate sales and bank deposits.

Commenting further on the region's strong building activity during the first six months of 1977, the San Francisco-based economist explained that Northern Coastal California has recorded over $1.8 billion in total building permit valuations year-to-date. "This represents a 56 percent increase from the previous year, with the residential sector accounting for over 70 percent of the region's total permit valuations," Graves added.

Building permits issued during the first half of 1977 authorized the construction of 30,000 new dwelling units — an increase of 10,900 new residences over the year earlier level.

Contra Costa, Solano and Santa Clara counties recorded the largest increases in authorizations to construct single-family dwellings. The greatest expansion in multi-family units occurred in Santa Clara and Contra Costa counties.

While construction and housing costs continue to increase, Graves noted that, based upon the latest reading of the Consumer Price Index, consumer prices for the San Francisco - Oakland area increased about eight percent over the year earlier figure.

The July issue of the bank's monthly publication on business conditions in Northern California is available at any Security Pacific Bank office in the Northern Coastal region.

How to get in for less

Here are some ways to reduce or eliminate your need for down payment cash.

Arrange for private mortgage insurance which protects the lender against loss if you should default. If you have private mortgage insurance, some lenders may be more likely to accept a lower down payment. Call a mortgage insurance company (usually listed in the telephone directory's Yellow Pages under "Real Estate Loans") and ask for the names of lenders who will help you arrange for coverage. Some lenders will allow you to drop the policy once you've repaid a certain amount on your loan; other lenders require you to keep the policy until you've completely repaid the loan.

Apply for an FHA, VA, or Cal-Vet loan, all of which require relatively low down payments.

Buy from a seller who will accept a second deed of trust and wait for part of the purchase price. For more information see the discussion of "Other Financing."

Lease a home with an option to buy it at a later date for an agreed-upon price. Usually, some or all of the rent you pay is credited against the purchase price.

Buy from a builder or through a real estate agent who will accept the home you currently own as a trade-in. This arrangement, basically similar to an automobile trade-in, offers convenience as its main advantage.

Mohawk tribe moving

MOSSLAKE, N.Y. (AP) — A band of Indians that seized hundreds of acres of lush forestland in the Adirondacks is moving its community nail by nail after surviving three winters in handmade cabins and the hostility of their white neighbors.

The Indians — about 30 families of the Mohawk tribe — are trying to be self-sufficient and live off the land. They lived in the cabins reportedly without electricity or plumbing.

Now, after long negotiations with the state, the Mohawks have agreed to relocate in Clinton County, about 100 miles to the north
